IMPORTANT FROM THE STATE CAPITAL.

Defalcation of $22,000 in the Comptroller's Office.

A Market Clerk Under the Hands of the Sheriff to Be on Fillmore.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Daily Times.

ALBANY, Wednesday, Oct. 8.

We have a little variation from the excitement of politics. One of our model clerks in the office of the Comptroller has been robbing about $22,000 out of the State Treasury.

The first book for $16,000 was made in 1853, while Mr. WRIGHT was Comptroller. It was a check for that amount transmitted to the auction bureau by WRIGHTMAN & MOORE, in payment of auction dues. The clerk deposited the check in bank to his own credit, instead of with the State Treasurer to the credit of the State. He and the Comptroller passed out of office, and over two years have since elapsed.

When the Know-Nothings came into power, last Winter, the same clerk was appointed as one of the Americans that were to rule America, or so much of America as pertained to the auction and insurance business in the Comptroller's office, and in the past nine months he has abstracted about twelve thousand dollars more.

The last defalcations were detected a few days since, but the defaulter made off before he could be caught.

Great efforts are being made to hush up this piece of rascality, for fear it may injure the prospects of dear FILLMORE and slanderer BROOKS, but you may rely upon the above.

The defaulting clerk has been the back-boys of the South Americans, in the way of sustaining their assertions by betting. He has promptly backed his opinions, and, as it now appears, using the funds of the State for that purpose. P. P.

City and Town Elections.

BALTIMORE CITY MACHINE—DESPERATE FIGHTING AND LOSS OF LIFE.

BALTIMORE, Wednesday, Oct. 8.

An election for Mayor and Councilmen was held in this City to-day. During the latter part of the day there was a great deal of disorder and fighting, pistols and guns being freely used. The fighting in the Eighth and Fourteenth Wards was particularly severe; four men were killed and twenty wounded—among the latter three children.

The most serious riot occurred at Lexington market, between the adherents of the New Market Fire Company, (Democrats,) and the American Club "Rip Raps." The former were driven from the 19th Ward Polls and forced into their Engine House, where they armed themselves with muskets, when a general fight ensued, lasting half an hour, pistols, clubs, and muskets being freely used on both sides. Twenty, more or less, were wounded. CHARLES BROWN, and two others named WALTERS and SPARKS, and another, name unknown, were killed. Twelve three of these wounded are dangerously so.

The following is the result of the election:

Ward.	Swan.	A. Wright.	D.	Ward.	Swan.	A. Wright.	D.
I.....	854	438		XI.....	528		661

THE CONNECTICUT TOWN ELECTIONS.

HARTFORD, Wednesday, Oct. 8.

HARTFORD, Conn, Wednesday, Oct. 8.

The Courant says that 126 towns have been heard from, the Republicans carrying 79 and the Democrats 48; divided, 5. FREMONT gains 28 towns, and BUCHANAN 14.

Yale College—Society Affairs—How Politically Affected.

NEW-HAVEN, Saturday, Oct. 4, 1856.

The Yale Banner, issued during the past week, contains some statistics with reference to the state of the College which may be of general interest. This sheet is published as soon as possible after the beginning of the year, and contains the names and residences of all the students, the names of the members of the two literary and of the different secret societies, together with other matters of minor interest. There are no less than ten secret societies in the different classes, not including that venerable institution, Phi Beta Kappa, which during the past year has followed the example of the Know-Nothings in removing the ban of secrecy from its proceedings. The officers of Phi Beta Kappa are as follows:

President—Professor THOMAS A. THACHER.
Vice-President—DANIEL C. GILMAN.
Corresponding Secretary—Professor NOAH PORTER.
Recording Secretary—LEVI HOLBROOK.
Treasurer—S. M. FREELAND.

The names of the different Secret Societies and the numbers of their members are as follows. It will be seen that after exhausting all the available letters of the Greek alphabet, they have recourse to other symbols whereby to distinguish themselves.

Of the Senior Societies there are two: "Skull and Bones" and "Scroll and Key," each containing fifteen members.

JUNIOR SOCIETIES.

Psi Upsilon—Seniors, 24; Juniors, 26. Total, 50.
Delta Kappa Epsilon—Seniors, 30; Juniors, 25. Total, 55.
Alpha Delta Phi—Seniors, 16; Juniors, 18. Total, 44.

SOPHOMORE SOCIETIES.

Kappa Sigma Theta—Sophomores, 22.
Alpha Sigma Phi—Sophomores, 35.

The Freshmen Societies are Kappa Sigma Epsilon, Sigma Delta and Delta Kappa. The numbers of their newly initiated members have not yet been announced. The summary of students in the different departments is as follows:

Theological Students, 29; Law Students, 24; Medical Students, 24; Scientific School, 45; Seniors, 105; Juniors, 108; Sophomores, 129; Freshmen, 134. Total 697.

The students in the Collegiate Department are divided between Linonia and the Brothers in Unity, as follows:

Linnaeans.		Brothers in Unity.
Seniors.....	57	Seniors.....	48
Juniors.....	47	Juniors.....	61
Sophomores.....	71	Sophomores.....	57
Freshmen.....	60	Freshmen.....	74
Total.....	235	Total.....	240

There are two musical associations sustained by the students; the Beethoven Society, which still maintains a vigorous existence notwithstanding the adversities it has encountered during the past year, and Tyroles; the former devoted to the cultivation of vocal, and the latter to that of instrumental music. But the attention of the students is not entirely devoted to mental culture, as the Banner testifies. The physical nature must be cared for. Thus among Boarding Clubs we have "Pi-Eta;" the "Shanghai Club," with its "Cock of the Roost;" "Chow Chow," with its "Kall-oka-si;" the "Crocodiles," with their "Thallarchus," and the "Sharks," with their "Bungaroo."

Within the last few days the College has been thoroughly canvassed with the view of ascertaining the Presidential preferences of the voters among the students. Of 190 who vote at the approaching election—

FREMONT.....	112
BUCHANAN.....	5
FILLMORE.....	4
Undecided.....	1

This canvass comprises all voters in the Senior and Junior classes, and as many in the Sophomore and Freshmen classes, and Theological and Scientific departments as room in the College buildings.

NEW-YORK CITY.

A Large and Enthusiastic Fillmore Meeting.

A meeting was called for yesterday P. M. last evening, at the 17th Ward Fillmore and Dumolon Club at the hall corner of Greenwich and Duane-streets. About fifteen minutes after the hour appointed one of our reporters presented himself to take a look at the meeting and report the noteworthy remarks of a leading Fillmore orator announced to appear on the occasion. The room in which the meeting was to be held was found after a search occupied by some half-dozen rickety stairs. One gloomy light dimly burning, cast a ghastly glare over the apartment. After some half hour's waiting, a tall, attenuated and decidedly unfortune-looking individual with a very small moustache and feeble cane, walked in.

ATTENUATED INDIVIDUAL—"Alone I perceive."

REPORTER—"Quite evident, Sir. I have been impressed with the fact for some time."

ATTENUATED INDIVIDUAL—"Well, there are two of us here now, enough for a meeting."

REPORTER—(Unable to recognize the use of a meeting unless with orders included)—"Don't you think there will be more present?"

ATTENUATED INDIVIDUAL—"Perhaps so—perhaps not—all chance—had we not better go on and not risk the chance?"

REPORTER—I came to report the meeting.

ATTENUATED INDIVIDUAL—(Looking frightened and forcibly agitating his cane.) Do, you belong to our order—I am afraid I have let out a secret.

REPORTER—What secret?

ATTENUATED INDIVIDUAL—As to what may compose a meeting.

A long pause followed this last remark. The attenuated individual went to a window and looked out, and looked about him and looked at his watch. Our reporter imitated the latter movement, and seeing the advance made in the evening, made his exit, leaving behind him, night and the attenuated individual. A Fillmore paper not a mile away, will probably have a report of a large and enthusiastic meeting at this place, with the prefatory statement, that the place was filled some time before the time of the meeting.

American Republican Club.

The Fremont and Dayton American Republican Club (more generally known as the Van Riperites) had a meeting last evening at the Chinese Rooms, Broadway. The attendance was quite large. Mr. VAN RIPER, the President of the Club, was hailed with loud and oft-repeated cheers, and in response thereto returned his thanks in a brief and neat speech. He justified the action which had brought down upon him such ill-will from certain quarters,—and announced his determination to persevere in the good work which he had begun with earnestness and fidelity, conscious that he was only performing his duty as a loyal citizen and true American.

After the conclusion of his remarks, which were received with applause, an election of officers was had. Mr. VAN RIPER was unanimously reelected President. Messrs. OTHES HARRIS and CHAS. WEBB were chosen Vice-Presidents, and EDWARD JARDINE, R. W. EDWARD and WM. PERL, Secretaries.

The meeting then adjourned with cheers for FREMONT and DAYTON.

Republican General Committee.

The Republican General Committee held a meeting last evening at Academy Hall, Broadway, but did not transact any business of general interest.

New Buildings near Pearl-street.

Property in the vicinity of Pearl-street is on the rise; at least the buildings about the corner of Broadway are going up very rapidly. The brick building on the southern corner is nearly completed, and the white marble store next it is also in a very forward state. The latter, which is to be occupied by Mr. JOHN BRIGGS, stands on the site of the old Gothic Hall and the adjoining lots. A very pretty store is erecting on the opposite side of Broadway, on a lot running back to the Hospital grounds, and on the northeast corner of Pearl-street and Broadway the foundation walls of the large silk warehouse of BOWEN & McNAMEE have been carried up even with the sidewalk, and the superstructure will very soon be placed upon them. In the meanwhile the Broadway Theatre stands in statu quo; the piece of landscape scenery is still to be seen projecting from the hole in the wall, like the genius of Romance gazing at the realities of Life. In the meanwhile the suit against BOWEN & McNAMEE is set down for adjudication during the present term, although this furnishes no guarantee of a speedy trial, so dilatory are all legal proceedings now-a-days. The Broadway Theatre, where so many spectacles have been exhibited in by-gone days, is now a spectacle itself to curious observers. It stands gloomily wrapped in historic dignity, like some unfortunate being waiting for an opening.

Seizure of a Slaver.

The bark Panchita, NAYLOR, Master, for Ambes, (coast of Africa?) was taken possession of by Captain FAUNCE, of the U. S. Revenue Cutter Washington, yesterday afternoon. The bark left the City yesterday morning in tow of steamer C. Durant, and when off Sandy Hook was boarded by Capt. FAUNCE, and Marshals DE ANGELIS and HELMES. When on examining the vessel and her papers, they were satisfied of the illegality of her intended voyage she was taken in charge by Capt. F., and ordered to return to the City.

On the approach of the Washington, the supercargo of the bark hove overboard the private papers of the vessel, and the weights attached not being sufficient to sink them, they were recovered. These, it is said, are plain proof of the object of the bark's voyage.

Five of the seamen attached to the vessel were arrested on board the brig Brenta, seized as a slaver a short time since.

She now lies at the Navy Yard, Brooklyn, in charge of Capt. FAUNCE and the Marshals.

The Explosion on Board the Isaac P. Smith.

The two firemen who were so terribly scalded by the bursting of the steam-chest on board this boat, died on Monday afternoon, within a quarter of an hour of each other. The engineer will recover. The cause of the explosion is a mystery, as 28 pounds of steam was the highest amount carried. The engineer would have escaped unhurt, but in hastening to shut off the steam, he stumbled and fell across the grating over the fire-room, and his arms and face were badly burned by the ascending steam. He however had the presence of mind not to inhale the scalding vapor, and arose and succeeded in shutting off the the steam—thereby, perhaps, preventing a more serious loss of life. His name is AARON WHEELER, of Nyack, Rockland County. The two firemen were brothers, named JOHN and HIRAM REID, and resided with their mother in Green County. Another brother lost his wife on board the Henry Clay.

Burglaries in Broadway.

The store No. 518 Broadway was entered by means of false keys, early yesterday morning, and robbed of paintings and clothing valued at $200. The property belonged to J. P. BEAUMONT.

The office of WILLIAM S. LATSON, dentist, on the third floor of No. 383 Broadway, was robbed yesterday afternoon of $200 worth of dental instruments and wearing apparel. The thief effected an entrance by means of false keys.

A Caution to the Careless.

We saw a carpenter, yesterday, passing along South-street, which is always crowded with people in the daytime, with a box of tools on his shoulder, from which a saw stuck out on a level with the head of every person he met, at the imminent risk of wounding the face of some of the numerous crowd that passed him, going in the opposite direction. In this way he proceeded several blocks, until he met a sailor who was saunteering leisurely along, and very nearly ran against the dangerous instrument. The son of Neptune, without saying a word, seized the saw and broke it in pieces across his knee, and flung the fragments across the street. The mechanic, although evidently very angry, did not dare to show his ire, and, without a word spoken on either side, each passed on his way. We never saw a reproof so quickly and effectually administered, and if there was always some such avenger at hand, to punish such culpable carelessness, many of the "accidents" on which we have to record would not happen.

☞ The following steamships, named for Commodore VANDERBILT, are at present laid up viz.: The Star of the West, Northern Light, Pennsylvania, Detroit Western, Arctic, Philadelphia, Ohio and Queen of the Star.

☞ The steamship Adelaide, is laid up for repairs. She cannot be seen by the public without interfering with the workmen.

Mad Ox on a Spree—He Gores a Man—Knocks Down a Woman and is Shot.

A maddened bull made his appearance in the streets of the Seventh Ward, yesterday forenoon, causing the greatest consternation. Pedestrians fled in a fright for safety, and two of them were overtaken by the infuriated beast and badly wounded. A laborer named Cornelius Lyon, residing at No. 11 Mulberry-street, was so badly gored that it was found necessary to remove him to the City Hospital. A lady, residing in Mulberry-street, was also injured, but not so seriously as to prevent her from proceeding to her home.

Policeman McGUIRE shot the beast with a rifle ball, but it did not kill it. Two other shots were fired, the second by a citizen, after which the beast received in Jackson-square, where he fell dead.

Man Killed.

PATRICK MCCARTHY, a German, well known in the neighborhood of this office, was yesterday thrown from his cart, at the corner of Chatham and Duane streets, and Killed.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM—Oct. 8.

Before Justice Clerke.

The Accessory Transit Company not yet in the Hands of a Receiver.

Jeremiah G. Hamilton vs. The Accessory Transit Company and others.—CLERKE, J.—I do not acquiesce in the opinion expressed by the counsel of the plaintiff, that, if the Company has, for any cause, been dissolved by any authority exercising supreme power in Nicaragua, this application must necessarily be granted.

This is an application for an injunction until the trial, and for the appointment of a receiver. These are provisional remedies, in the sound discretion of the Court, and should never be granted unless, at least, there is the strongest probability that the Court will ultimately decide that the plaintiff is entitled to the relief which he demands in his complaint, and that the property is in danger of being lost, or materially injured or impaired, before the full investigation and final determination of the case. The judgment demanded by the plaintiff is, that the Company be declared to be dissolved. There can, probably, be little doubt that the plaintiff will be able to prove at the trial that Rivas, the Provisional President of the Republic of Nicaragua, did, on the 18th day of February, 1856, issue a decree declaring this Company to be thenceforth dissolved. It is not, however, pretended that this decree was in conformity with the previously established organic laws of the land, that it had even the color of legality, or the sanction of any legislative body or judicial tribunal. It is conceded to be an act of purely arbitrary power, emanating from the absolute will of the individual, Patricio Rivas. Now, undoubtedly, if this individual, by a successful revolution, whether by fraud, or force or perjury, stealthily, or by wading through the blood of his fellow-citizens, subverted the institutions of his country, and on their ruins established the sole absolute authority, declaring emphatically, by the bad, bold act itself, the obligations of law and the restrictions of constitutional Government, I should be bound, after his Government was recognized by our own, to consider all his acts valid; but, so far as I can judge, from the history of the events which attended his elevation, there is strong reason to believe that, although his government was provisional, he was bound by the Constitution of 1826, which, like all free constitutions, distributes the different powers of government into executive, legislative, and judicial, assigning to each its proper sphere, and, among other salutary provisions, ensures to the preservation of political liberty, declaring that the property of individuals is sacred from confiscation. The power to do this is, by article 183, subd. 16, declared to be a judicial function; and judicial functions are confined expressly by Article 180 to the judicial department. The foreign military adventurer, invited by the Democratic Party, the "friends of this Constitution, came avowedly, it is positively alleged, to aid them in overthrowing the Constitution, destroy the Legislative or Aristocratic party, who were desirous of destroying it, and substituting in its place an aristocratic republic, or a monarchy absolute or limited. It was on this assumption, or pretence, there is some reason to believe, that the people embarked in Gen. Walker, and consented to the establishment of a provisional government with Patricio Rivas at its head. And, if this be so, the decree of Rivas, influenced, doubtless, by all considerations of the intimate intimacy, will, in due time, receive the sanction of a permanent government, established as an act of the individual Rivas, as a danger to the rights of American citizens. It will be the province of the American Government to determine the propriety of many of its citizens being concerned in this scheme of war to be reconsidered; and, if the Company have done something deserving of death, that they shall have an opportunity of being heard, and, if sentence should be pronounced against them, that it shall be the result of careful investigation, if not, according to the course and practice of regular judicial proceedings. I think, too, that the Court appears to me probable, from an examination of the documents before me, that this decree will be revoked by Senor Patricio Rivas himself. But, moreover, when I consider the precarious tenure of his power, I am induced to pause before I grant this application. There is scarcely, in the varied and blood-stained history of mankind, a more sad example than Spanish America affords of the instability of power and the fickleness of the multitude, when once let loose from traditional respect and reverence for law and custom. In that unhappy country one military adventurer succeeds another in the possession of the supreme power with almost as much rapidity as the fleeting images of the magic lantern.

The rule of each successful usurper is notoriously evanescent; what is done to-day will be undone to-morrow—the good accomplished by one will be repudiated by another; perhaps the injustice or tyranny of the despot of this hour will be repaired in the next by his successor; perhaps, among the incessant mutations of political fortune enacted in Nicaragua, Rivas has already vanished from the scene, and his successor is ready to atone for the wrong which the defendants have suffered; or, if he sustains himself in spite of, and in opposition to, his old friend, Gen. Walker, now his enemy, he is inclined to restore the charter of the Company, and declare his former decree null and void from the beginning.

Besides, admitting an apparent dissolution, however probable, as a historical fact, yet if no material injury is likely to befall the property before the ultimate decision of the case, the Court, in the exercise of a sound discretion, ought not to interfere. This consideration seems to be contemplated by section 244 of the Code, relating to provisional remedies before judgment. It provides that a receiver may be appointed when the property is in danger of "being lost or materially injured or impaired." The plaintiff makes no allegation to this effect. There is not a particle of proof that the property is "in danger of being lost or materially injured or impaired," or of being in the slightest degree injured or impaired. The plaintiff is the owner of two hundred shares of the capital stock of the Company; he is the only owner who applies for this relief; while the owners of 40,000 shares strenuously remonstrate against it, and express their dissent to this application for the appointment of a receiver in this action, "preferring that the affairs of the Company shall continue under the present management, unless changed by the votes of a majority of the stockholders."

Indeed, if this application were sanctioned by a considerable number of the shareholders, I would hesitate to grant it at this time, under present circumstances, if opposed by any other considerable number. To grant it may, and in my opinion would eventuate in irreparable injury to the Company. The appointment of a receiver would disturb and derange its present management, would neutralize all the efforts now made for the restoration of its charter, would defeat the plans which the present direction and the great body of stockholders have in contemplation; and if the Rivas decree should be soon revoked, and the Company reinstated in its former rights, an insuperable obstacle would stand in the way of reestablishing it in its former state. Thus, by granting the application I may cause an irreparable and extensive injury, while by refusing it, at the most, the injury will be comparatively trivial.

Application denied, with $10 costs.

A Fillmore Pole-Raising.

Correspondence of the New-York Daily Times.

PALMYRA POST, Saturday, Oct. 4, 1856.

I notice in the Express of yesterday the statement that 5,000 people assembled here the other day at a Fillmore meeting. This is an awful exaggeration. The truth is, that the Fillmorites wishing to raise a pole stuck up mammoth handbills announcing that Gen. GUSTAVUS ADOLPHUS SCHOCKS, of Buffalo, JOHN K. HALL, and OTHER distinguished speakers would be present. The eventful day came, and with it the pole, but, alas! with it no crowd. About two hundred was the largest number that was on the ground at any time, and this great crowd was composed of all kinds—Fremont, Fillmore and Buchanan men and boys. Three speakers were present, but the majority of them, probably disgusted with the "show," found occasion to "slope," leaving the burthen of the speaking to fall upon the shoulders of the gallant GUSTAVUS ADOLPHUS. As to the speech, I will only say that it was "bold, rambling, unjointed" talk, containing the usual charges against Col. FREMONT. In short, the Republicans were quite as much pleased with the "fizzle" as anybody, and now the Express comes to us with a notice of a grand rally of 5,000 men. If this is the plan this truthful sheet works on we are glad to know it. FREMONT will carry this town and this county.

Yours truly, W. H.

The steamboat Josephine will leave Whitehall (Staten Island Ferry) at 12 M. on Thursday, Oct. 9, and take persons desirous of attending the Republican meeting at Tottenville, S. I., free of charge. She will leave Vanderbilt Landing at 1 P. M., and touch at all the landings on the Island, going to and returning from the place of meeting, and return to the City the same evening. This will be a grand demonstration for FREMONT and FREEDOM. Several distinguished speakers will address the meeting. A band of music and a glee club will accompany the boat to and from Tottenville.

Ohio papers come to us filled with glowing accounts of the great Republican gathering at Mount Vernon Battle Ground, on the 1st and 2d inst. This was the largest demonstration, according to all accounts, ever held in any previous one that has ever been held in the State. The Buchanan organs stated that numbers as great as the two days' Conventions, on the same ground, in the year 1840, namely, from 100,000 to 120,000—a monstrous exaggeration, of course. The Republican gathering was as large as the Old Whigs, as to early days, by tales and figures. The Battle Ground is about 7 miles from Lafayette, and the hosts were taken from the city to the place of meeting by excursion trains, 25 cents up and 25 cents back. The Secretary of the Republican meeting exceeded the entire number of the Buchanan Convention, and the figures for the success of the Company proved it! The Bellefontaine Herald received a most interesting specimen. The flag-staff had been stolen, from which to hoist the banner of the Union flag, and in place of the centre one, ever-dropping oil, was inserted a Fremont and DAYTON. Speeches were made from five stands, and the meetings were kept up for two days, with unflagging interest and spirit.

The Lancaster Reporter, the Fillmore paper of Lancaster County, Pa., submits the following proposition for a union between the Fremont and Fillmore men in Pennsylvania, upon a common electoral ticket: "Twenty-six electors shall consist of the name of the twenty-seventh elector on the Fillmore ticket, and shall consist of a different name from the twenty-seventh on the Fremont ticket. For example, MILLARD FILLMORE and twenty-six other names on the several Congressional districts, on one ticket; JOHN C. FREMONT, and the same twenty-six names above referred to, shall form the other ticket. The twenty-six electors shall be entitled to cast the electoral votes of the State for MILLARD FILLMORE and JOHN C. FREMONT, respectively, in proportion to the popular votes cast for each, as obtained by the twenty-seventh elector on each ticket. For example, if MILLARD FILLMORE (as the twenty-seventh elector who represents the highest number of votes with JOHN C. FREMONT) receives, for instance, 150 electoral votes, and JOHN C. FREMONT 100 electoral votes, then MILLARD FILLMORE, and 15 for JOHN C. FREMONT, and so on in exact proportion."

The Democratic organizers in the State Convention at New-Jersey have sent a address to the voters of that State. After calling the importance of the issues at stake, the address proceeds the policy of the present Administration, and following to it the outrages in Kansas, and the conduct of Mr. BUCHANAN in committing to the support of the nomination and his subsequent speeches and conduct construed against the opponents of Slavery extension. Lastly, it takes up Col. FREMONT, and presents him as the representative of Freedom.

A letter-writer thus divides the possibilities for new Slave States, if a slavery-extension President comes in:

8 new Slave States out of Kansas.
2 new Slave States out of Nebraska.
8 new Slave States out of Texas.
2 new Slave States out of Washington.
2 new Slave States out of Oregon.
2 new Slave States out of Northern Territory.
1 new Slave State out of Indian Territory.
4 new Slave States out of New-Mexico.
4 new Slave States out of Utah.
2 new Slave States out of Minnesota.
1 new Slave State out of South Carolina.
5 new Slave States out of Cuba.

29 additional Slave States.

The San Francisco correspondent of the Portsmouth Gazette writes: "Amasa Paul, who was the former Governor of California, and latterly joined FREMONT, has come out for him. He was one of the Democratic electors for PIERCE, and is supposed to have a controlling influence over the native Californians. I saw him the other evening at the Union Club. He is a noble looking man, and, judging from the style and manner in which he spoke, for he spoke in Spanish, I should say his looks do not belie his character. Col. BAKER, of Mississippi, is also stumping the State for FREMONT. He is pronounced the best speaker in this State, and equal to any stump orator in the country."

The following is an extract from a recent letter from Mr. G. L. BRACE. It is written from Germany:

"Science and freedom go hand in hand in the old world, as well as in the new. I met lately a German man, one of the most eminent in Northern Europe, Professor RANKE, of Berlin. He asked about America, and, without waiting for a reply, said with great warmth: 'Sir, we pray for FREMONT, in this election of yours, will be the turning of civilization. We know him well here—he is a great man, sir; a true friend of freedom, of freedom.' He then turned to a friend, and said that he was the same man he had met in the Geographical Society, and had made the same inquiries in California. 'He saved California from Slavery, I hear. We have never watched any election as we do this,' he added. 'It seems a crisis in your history, and it will crush the hopes of the Slavery party here to see your Free party triumph.' He said, they say Democratic Party, he continued, 'Democrat means Autocrat in America, opposite of Liberty!'"

Senator DOUGLAS arrived in St. Louis on the 6th inst., and left the next morning for his appointment at Belleville. The St. Louis Republican says (we suppose ironically) that the visit gave the made certain in Illinois the election of Mr. BUCHANAN.

Hon. EPHRAIM MARSH, of New-Haven, and WM. H. BURLINGH, Esq., of this City, are to address a Republican Meeting at Hewlett's Hall, in the village of Hempstead, L. I., on Friday evening of this week.

A vote was taken yesterday on the main road between Worcester and Norwich, resulting for FREMONT, 135; for BUCHANAN, 33, and for FILLMORE, 18.

THE LATE MURDER AT AUBURN—INTERESTING EXPERIMENT.—The Mayor of Auburn has offered a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of the murderer of J. H. BEARDS, the particulars of whose death we have published. A very interesting examination was made by Dr. CHAS. P. SAMPSON, in the view of testing the truth of an article published some time since by a celebrated English physiologist, Surgeon, which alleged that the last person murdered man would remain impressed on the retina of the eye, as does the image in the daguerreotype, or the photograph. The Doctor says: "We were present during the experiment, and have, at last, this testimony to bear, that there is truth in the principle involved. Dr. BEARDS made a skillful dissection of the eye, and succeeded in bringing the retina, one of the tunics of human frame, being an expansion of the optic nerve, under the view of a microscope, but nothing on the retina examined. The deduction of the visiting surgeon, that the last impression upon it which man ever looked upon, was the fact that the retina retained the last impression made upon it. What we may conclude, we do not pretend to make an opinion of, but we will say that we are prepared to make a more positive one than we have made, if we can get the opportunity, and that in this instance we succeeded, we spare no pains to make a more perfect one, and we will do so, if the opportunity presents itself, with a view to remove any doubt which the minds of science advanced.

Ultimatum to Naples.

[illegible] BY A FRENCH AND ENGLISH SQUADRON—[illegible] OF THE AMBASSADORS CONFERENCE AT PARIS.

From the Correspondence of the London Times.

[illegible] intelligence of the withdrawal from Naples of the English and French Legations and of the [illegible] of a naval squadron was tele[illegible] yesterday from London to Paris, and produced a fall in the funds of about a quarter per cent. The [illegible] however, although at present [illegible] they very probably prove a shadow of [illegible] especially as regards the interruption [illegible] diplomatic intercourse with the Neapolitan Gov[illegible] it is thought will surely take place. It is said that some [illegible] has been decided on Baron Hübner's intervention, but it is very slight, and shared by few. The tone of the Paris papers of to-day shows that the belief in [illegible] France and England have abandoned [illegible] measures for positive demonstrations [illegible] Ischia is to be the rendezvous of the combined squadrons, and that the French ships will leave Toulon immediately. They consist, as I am informed, of the Bretagne, carrying the flag of Admiral Tréhouart, the Ulm, Alcestes, and Napoleon, ships-of-the-line, and of the Isly, Duchayla, and Mogador, steam frigates of corvettes. The funds have fallen [illegible] It is said that Baron Hübner is ex[illegible] Paris, whence he will proceed to [illegible] Vienna. I have been told that [illegible] from Naples give grounds for expec[illegible] be the bearer of good news, but [illegible] rather to the thought, for many [illegible] to see the affair settled by [illegible] leading to the reasonable de[illegible]

[illegible] which of late so much opposition has [illegible] by the Palace and its camarillas. The plan had certainly a specious appearance; it was taken from the church to restore the church, or churches, and it looks a little like a trap laid for the Queen. Had she fallen into it, the question of the church property would have been settled, and the Cabinet would have got over its greatest difficulty. But Rios Rosas, on learning what his colleagues had agreed to, demanded the convocation of an extraordinary Council, at which the Queen presided. In this Council Cantero urged that none could find fault with a law which applied ecclesiastical funds to ecclesiastical purposes; but Rios Rosas combated this argument, and declared that Cantero's real object was to obtain the confirmation of the law of desamortization, although he knew the difficulties that it would occasion to the Government in its negotiations with the Court of Rome. He added, according to the Debats, that the law had been voted by surprise and without sufficient reflection, (although it is well known that it was the subject of very long debate in the Constituent Assembly,) and that it must be referred to the future Cortes. In the discussion that ensued, O'Donnell, Cantero and Bayarri supported the law; the four other Ministers opposed it. Finally, O'Donnell is said to have declared that the law of desamortization had been voted after a free and conscientious deliberation, that it had been sanctioned by the Queen, and that his Government could not permit its suspension; and that if the Queen refused her signature to Señor Cantero's project he and the two colleagues who shared his opinion would resign. The Queen ranged herself on the side of the majority of the Council, entreated Cantero to withdraw his project, and said she should not accept O'Donnell's resignation. The Council over, the Premier again presented the decree for signature, with the alternative of his resignation. The Queen refused both, and O'Donnell gave way.

It is rather curious to observe the pertinacity with which, when the Ministry is tottering to its foundations, the Madrid Government organs continue their daily assurances of its firm cohesion and of the perfect unanimity of its members. Such systematic mendacity appears puerile abroad, but in Spain it is not without its uses.

FRIGHTFUL RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

The following are the details of the terrible accident on the Aranjuez Railway:

"A diligence from Seville, which was placed on a truck, caught fire near Villasequia, and flames soon burst forth; the train, however, proceeded about two miles before the conflagration was perceived. The train was then, of course, immediately stopped, and the burning vehicle was separated from it: but some of the passengers had previously jumped from it. Amongst them were two sisters, and a lady and child, all of whom were so dreadfully injured that they died in a few hours, and another was burnt to death. The other passengers, eight in number, escaped with their lives, but one was seriously injured, and the others received contusions. One of the latter was a lady, who was so stout that she had to pay for two places, and her escape was considered miraculous. The diligence, and the truck on which it was, were completely reduced to cinders. It is not known how the fire originated, but it is supposed to have been by the imprudence of some passenger in the diligence in lighting a cigar. Some of the passengers by the train were so exasperated at the accident, that they assaulted the guards and engine men in charge of the train; one of the guards was seriously injured; even a government inspector who happened to be present, was menaced."

CONSIDERATION FOR THE PEOPLE IN RUSSIA.

In his letter from Moscow, dated Sept. 16, the special correspondent of the London Times writes:

"The ceremonies and rejoicings and shows to celebrate the Coronation will occupy the whole of the month till the 30th, and the programme thus arranges them: Monday, 15th, Dinner to Ambassadors; 16th, Ambassadors' Ball; 17th, Field Day, and Dinner to the Army, given by the merchants of Moscow; 18th, Ambassadors' Ball; 19th, Manœuvres and Field Day, 100,000 men; 20th, Levée, Grand Duke Hereditary's Birthday, Ball to the Nobility; 21st, Levée, Grand Duke Constantine's Birthday, Levee and Ambassadors' Dinner; 22d, Ambassadors' ball; 23d, Dinner given by the Governor-General of Moscow; 24th, People's fête—dinner in the plain to 200,000 people; 25th, Ambassadors' dinner; 26th, Bal masqué for the people at the Kremlin; 27th, Ambassadors' dinner; 28th, Marshal of the Coronation's ball, &c.; 29th, Ambassadors' dinner; 30th, the grand fête of fireworks and final illuminations. It will be observed by this list that the "people" are more considered in Russia than one could have expected; and, indeed, it has been the subject of general remark here among strangers that the lower orders are allowed great freedom in their approach to the person of the Czar, and in all shows and ceremonies.

ILLUMINATION OF MOSCOW.

The illuminations are beginning; look out, and you will see, high in air a cluster of stars—a faint nebula of light, which, as you look, seems to expand downwards—no, sideways, to flash, to wave down as it were, widening and spreading as it creeps. Look again—hundreds of such constellations break out on the black mantle of the night. Rows of fires in regular form and figure rise up as if rent in most thick hedges, and flames and columns pipe beneath the scenes, where, shielded from the public gaze, Richard is himself again, and King Marcy and King Davis are once more ordinary mortals. Everybody knows that this is an electioneering contest, that the Democrats are bidding high for the next Presidency, with all the spoils appertaining to it, and that they must in the interim do what the Southern planter tells them. They are as much under his orders as if they were marching to the sound of the drum; it is all up with them if they offend him—his vote is necessary. The Southern slave-owner has accordingly simply dictated at every step the policy of the Washington officials in this affair from the first. When the Missouri irruption erected a rival Legislature of Kansas by the side of the then-existing Free-State Legislature, the Southern planter told the Washington officials which they were to regard as the true and lawful and which as the pretended Legislature of Kansas; and the Washington officials accordingly voted the new Missouri Legislature the true and lawful Legislature of Kansas, and the Free-State Legislature as a usurping and pretended one. The Federal forces were sent to support the lawful authorities and put down resistance to them. Then followed the struggle in Congress, in which the Southern planter has won again, by little more than a single vote. It is in this balance of parties, when, if you were to poll the Union, you would find that by far the largest proportion of unsophisticated public opinion went with the Free-State party in Kansas, and when even in Congress, where the superior diplomacy of the Southern planter gives him an advantage, the two votes are all but equal—it is in such a balance of parties as this that the Washington officials assume the airs of hereditary princes and vote the opposite side rebels and insurgents, though they know that at any moment it is quite possible the tables may be turned, and that the election of Fremont may make the Free-State party in Kansas the legitimate one, and the Missouri colonists the rebels.

So much for the gross impudence of a Ministry who, with the full consciousness of what their motives have been and are in this contest, and with the full knowledge that these motives are known to the whole of the States, dare to throw upon party rapacity and the pursuit of the spoils of office the mantle of authority, disguise an alliance with slavery by pretending the sacred ends of government and civil order, and give to a simple electioneering bargain with the Southern planter the high-sounding title of public duty and administrative zeal. But this party ought, at any rate, if they adopt this tone and language, to be more consistent in carrying it out. Why, if the Free-State party in Kansas are to be shot without mercy as rebels and insurgents, are Governor Reeder and the speakers and audience of the New-York public meeting to be let alone? There, in the heart of the first city—the virtual capital of the United States, a large and crowded meeting publicly avowed its sympathy with the Free-State colonists of Kansas, and not only avowed its sympathy, but entered on a line of active cooperation with it, and undertook to assist it by supplies of men and money. Why do not Mr. Marcy and Mr. Jefferson Davis seize every citizen of New-York who attended that meeting as a "rebel" and "an insurgent" against the Government of the United States? If the receiver of stolen goods shares the guilt of the thief, and if the conspirator who plots against a Government is involved in the same crime with the armed assailant of it, the New-York meeting incurred the full guilt which attaches to the colonist of Kansas. If the colonist of Kansas is a "rebel" and an "insurgent," every man who attended that meeting at New-York was a rebel and an insurgent too. But this open, avowed, insurrectionist conspiracy takes place at midday, in the very heart of American commerce and society, with chairman, speakers, resolutions and all the concomitants of a public meeting, and the Government at Washington dare not touch a hair of the head of a single man there. An "insurgent" meets Mr. Marcy at every turn of the street; at every dinner party, at every railway, half the guests and half the travelers are insurgents; half, and more than half, of the American public are engaged in an open conspiracy, carried on by advertisements and subscription lists, against the Government at Washington. Why does not the American Government make at least an effort to suppress this universal rebellion? Simply for this reason—that, just as treason which is successful is never called treason, rebellion which is universal can never be rebellion.

The British Treaty with Honduras.

The Liverpool Albion publishes the copy of a communication from Don Leon Alvarado to the Governor of the Republic of Honduras, advising him of the conclusion of the negotiations with England, and specifying the terms of the treaty. The letter is dated "Legation of Honduras, London, September 15, 1856, 80th anniversary of the Independence," and intimates that the negotiations with England are concluded. Although claiming the Bay Islands, Honduras was willing to leave them free to the enterprise of the world, on condition that her sovereignty were recognized and the Mosquito territory were restored to her. The United States accepted these conditions, and England saw in them a means of getting out of a disagreeable question. The Ambassador then announces that the treaties are concluded as follows:

1. The recognition of the sovereign rights of Honduras over the Islands of Roatan, Bonacca, &c., and declaring them free territory, governed by proper municipalities.

2. Adjudication of the indefinite region of Honduras against the claim of Mr. Hodgson, Governor of Jamaica, by the decision of a Spanish monarch, to whom the case was referred by the parties, and whose award was never acted upon.

3. A triangular region of country, the boundaries of which are specified in the treaty, to be given to Mr. Hodgson in satisfaction of all claims whatsoever.

4. Memorandum of the basis of negotiations:

1. Señor Ministro—This wisdom teaches that a nation should march with the circumstances of the day. Honduras enters a new political life; her steps should, therefore, be in decisive.—

1. That she knows no enemies or parties, and forgives all past offences.

2. Cultivates friendly relations with all who will accept them.

3. To avoid all compromises, offensive or defensive leagues, or common interests, and all discussions.

4. To form no league, diet, or confederation.

5. Invites all her neighbors to regulate territorial limits, and to examine the claims made by Copan on the part of Florida, and that in six or eight months the titles should be exhibited.

6. Prohibits or abolishes from the public press all politics, give regulations for education, &c.

In announcing this treaty, Don Leon Alvarado expresses his thanks to Mr. Marcy, to Lord Clarendon, to Mr. Dallas, to Mr. William Brown, M. P., to Mr. Squier, &c., for their several shares in effecting this treaty.

Extraordinary Revelation of Romanism.

From the Dublin Correspondence of the London Times.

The Tablet of this day gives prominently the [illegible] the following information [illegible] come to light within the last few days, the authenticity of which, in the main, is guaranteed by the informant. The story, however seemingly romantic, comes, nevertheless, within the range of probabilities. Amiable and accomplished as the late Earl of Shrewsbury was admitted to be, his Lordship, it is said by those who knew him intimately, had not the ordinary share of vulgar common sense which is often allotted to the less gifted and exalted:

"A will has been discovered among the papers of the late Earl of Shrewsbury bequeathing his estates to the late John Sadlier absolutely and unconditionally. The existence of this will was unknown to Mr. Shrewsbury Bellasis and Mr. Hope Scott until within the last few days. It is of a date anterior to the will in favor of the infant son of the Duke of Norfolk, and is understood to have been made previous to the short stay of the Earl in London when he took his seat in the House of Lords. The subsequent will was not, however, made in consequence of the public exposure which followed the suicide of John Sadlier; but before returning abroad the earl was advised by a dignified ecclesiastic to place his affairs in the hands, and seek the counsel of, Catholics of known probity and honor, and we believe that the executors of the existing will were recommended to him. The Earl, however, never made these gentlemen acquainted with the disposition he had previously made of his property, and it is understood that he overruled the advice they tendered to him in many respects, and especially in not leaving anything to his nearest relatives. The intention of the Earl was that his property should be applied by John Sadlier to charitable and ecclesiastical uses, and no plausible reason can be alleged for his choice of the person to whom he confided the distribution of his property, except that his own solicitor and his solicitor of John Sadlier were one and the same person. It is, of course, not to be supposed that this gentleman was acquainted with the Sadlier frauds, or even with the fact of the speculations in which John Sadlier was involved. And it is probable that so astute a man as Sadlier would, so far as possible, keep from the knowledge of his Catholic solicitor everything which would tend to lower his opinion of him, and seek other and less scrupulous advisers to carry out the details of his frauds and speculations."

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

Review of the Markets.

The English Money market, as previously stated, was flat. Final quotations in Consols were 93¾@94 for money, and 94@¾ for the 8th of October. Foreign Securities continued steady, but operations were unimportant.

The Corn market was heavy, and previous rates could not be realized, except for the choicest descriptions of Grain.

The advices from the Provincial towns contain nothing of importance. Business at Manchester was moderate, and prices well supported. Two small failures had occurred—Messrs. Gray & Co. for £15,000, and Mr. Alderman Shawcross for £25,000. In the latter case a composition of 12s. 6d. on the pound was expected. At Birmingham the Iron trade remained without variation. The accounts from Nottingham continue favorable. In the Woollen districts transactions were satisfactory, and the Irish Linen market continued firm.

The Liverpool Cotton market was active, and the demand more general, and, notwithstanding the withdrawal of a considerable quantity of American, the sales amounted to 12,000 bales, half on speculation. Prices partially ¼d. dearer than last quotations.

Trade in France.

From Paris Correspondence of London Times.

Some animation in business is manifest throughout the Parliament trade and industry, after the long stagnation of the Summer season. Numerous commission agents, who had hitherto kept aloof in the hope of a diminution of prices, being deceived in their expectations, have lately come forward and made extensive purchases. From South America considerable orders have likewise been received. Although the New-York and New-Orleans markets are [illegible] some activity, owing to the demand from Paris. The decline in the price of Cotton, which had made rapid progress in all the markets till the beginning of last week, has been checked for some days, and rates have again become somewhat firmer. The rise, however, is not considered serious nor likely to last. The price of the best sorts of Flour, which had fallen last week to 80f. and 85f. 50c. per sack of 157 kilogrammes, has advanced since Wednesday to 80f. 50c. and 90f. for delivery. The general opinion, however, is so favorable to a fall in Winter, that it is impossible to obtain above 85f. per sack for the first four months of 1857. Wheat has also risen 1f. 50c. ⅌ hectolitre and a half, in consequence of a report that Russia could not supply the quantity of Grain necessary for the wants of the South. Some very fine English Wheat, for seed, was offered on the Paris market, but the holders, having asked as high as 40f. ⅌ 100 kilogrammes, found no buyers. Prices likewise maintained themselves at Marseilles. There is no change in the Cattle market. Wines of a superior quality are much inquired after at Bercy, and their price is extremely firm. Little or no business is doing in Brandies, either at Paris or Bordeaux.

The Three per cents closed to-day at 70f. for the end of the month; the Four-and-a-Half per cents at 92f.; and the New Loan at 70f.; Orleans Railway shares, 1,350 f.; Great Northern, 960f.; Strasburg, 912f. 50c.; new shares, 830f.; Paris and Lyons, 1,230f.; Lyons to the Mediterranean, 1,805f.; Western of France, 862f. 50c.; Bordeaux and Cette, 725f.; Great Central of France, 662f. 50c.; Lyons and Geneva, 720f.; Bank of Credit Mobilier, 1,677f. 50c.; Austrian Railways, 855f.

Letter from Rev. Dr. Henry on Fremont's Religion.

The following letter addressed by a well-known and eminent clergyman of the Protestant Episcopal Church to General Swift, late of the United States army, will serve perhaps to disabuse any lingering prejudices that may remain in the minds of any, respecting the paltry charges that have been made about Mr. Fremont's religion:

New-York, Monday, Oct. 6, 1856.

To Gen. Swift, Geneva; My Dear Sir:—I passed an hour with Mr. Fremont Saturday morning and had a short interview with him to-day, and I know you would be glad to learn the impressions I received while they are fresh.

The prints fall exceedingly short of doing justice to his appearance. They make his features larger and coarser than they are in reality, and utterly fail to give one the idea of that rare union of gentleness, refinement and delicacy, with resolute energy and firmness, which are so remarkable in his features and in the expression of his countenance. His whole air and manner, tones of voice and way of speaking, are those of a quiet and modest, gentle and simple-hearted and earnest man, in whom the intellectual and moral faculties are in fine harmony, with just that degree of predominance of the moral elements of character so desirable in a great leader, a man of will and action, and which was the secret of Washington's wonderful power over those he had to do with.

In the course of our conversation, I adverted to the attempts to make him out a Romanist. He replied that the charge was put out for political effect, along with other unjust representations for the same end; that he had not thought fit to make any public reply to this more than to the others; but that he was always ready to satisfy any one who asked him, so far as a frank and sincere declaration of his sentiments would give satisfaction; that he was not a Roman Catholic, and never had been; that he was brought up a Protestant, by a mother devotedly attached to the Protestant faith, and never had any disposition to abandon the Church—the Protestant Episcopal—in which he was baptized and confirmed—in which his children were baptized and being brought up. In short, he said he was as much a Protestant as himself could be, or any other person educated in the Protestant faith, and who had never seen reason to change his hereditary religion; that he was indeed very far from having any clear and precise notion of the Romish doctrines—his course of life not allowing him to give much time or interest to theological matters; but, so far as he had any general notion of them, he held the Protestant views in opposition to them.

This is the exact purport of what he said, and in every material point I give you exactly his own words.

In relation to Mr. Fulmer's story about seeing him in a Roman Catholic Church in Washington, he said that he was here in New-York at the time alleged, having arrived here the day before from California, and without going to Washington embarked in a few days for Europe, from whence he did not return until eighteen months afterwards.

I adverted to Mr. Weir's letter, and asked him if he had ever told Lieut. Scamman he was a Romanist, or had ever sent any message to Mr. Weir by Mr. Scamman to that effect? He said, No, never; that the whole story, so far as he was concerned, was a fabrication without any truth, and utterly new to him when he saw it in the prints.

Mr. Fremont spoke on this subject with the same quiet decision and evident sincerity that marked all he said; and I am sure no hearing him could leave any doubt about the matter, unless willing to believe him capable of deliberate falsehood—a view of the case I think no decent man would dare maintain upon the evidence that has been put out.

The only unquestionable fact in the whole case which gives even a colorable pretext for the slander, is his marriage by a Roman Catholic priest; and this, so you and I know, is the frequent case with persons who [illegible] nothing at all to the point, especially in the circumstances of the case.

[illegible] with [illegible] Scamman about Mr. Fremont's being a Romanist, not as a message or utterance of Mr. Fremont's, but as a statement of his own, expressing possibly his own opinion, but more probably as a waggish hoax. This is my view of the case, and I have no doubt it is the true one.

As to the story about Mr. Fremont's owning a pew in St. Matthew's (Roman Catholic) Church in Washington: It would prove nothing to this purpose, even if he did. But he did not. The only grain of truth, and out of which the lie doubtless grew, is the fact of a relative owning a pew in that church in his official quality as a member of the French legation, and that Mr. Fremont was once there on the occasion of a relative's marriage.

As to his being seen at his orisons in the Romish Church at Panama, as alleged by somebody, Mr. Fremont told me he was never inside the church. It is possible that the grain of truth in the story may be that he was seen going towards it!

And so with all the stories; the lie is the same—the grain of truth proves nothing. But enough. What a paltry affair this all is. What an exhibition of the meanness to which political rancor will descend! I am sure Mr. Fremont's declarations will be satisfactory to you, staunch Protestant of the staunchest sort as you are, and ought to be satisfactory to all candid minds.

I am, my dear Sir, faithfully your,

C. S. HENRY.

FILLMORE REPUDIATED IN OTSEGO COUNTY.

CIRCULAR.

From the Cooperstown Republican and Democrat, Oct. 4.

The undersigned who have been known to be identified with the American Party, commonly known as Know-Nothings, have become satisfied that a strong effort is being made to divert the obligations resting on Americans, from their legitimate ends. It is easy to understand from what source this effort originates. Despairing of their ability to carry any portion of the North for Buchanan, upon the plain and obvious issue involved in the approaching election, to wit: the extension or restriction of Slavery, the Pro-Slavery leaders have sought to accomplish by intrigue, what they could not compass by fair and honorable means.

The present Presidential contest is between Buchanan and Fremont. This is so obviously the case that we cannot see how any sane man can doubt it for a moment. The leaders of the sham Democracy know that it is so; and if they pretend to the contrary, it is for the purpose of deluding American Whigs into the support of Fillmore, while they themselves, to a man, will adhere to Buchanan.

The recent elections in the Southern States, show conclusively that the South has resolved to unite upon Buchanan and that Fillmore will not have, in the Electoral College, a single Southern vote. In those Southern States which have held their elections, where his prospects were more promising than anywhere else in the Union, he has been thoroughly beaten; and if, being the chosen Whig and Know-Nothing candidate of the South, he cannot carry a Southern State, what possible ground is there to hope he can carry a Northern one?

There is none; but on the contrary, it is certain that he will not receive a single Electoral vote in the Union.

Every vote, therefore, cast for Millard Fillmore, is an indirect support of James Buchanan. And when we look back upon the policy of this Administration, and consider the evils it has wrought and the villanous ends it seeks yet to perpetrate; and when we consider, too, that Buchanan has planted himself upon that policy, and is supported by the united South on account of his pledges to abide by and carry it out; we cannot but shrink with horror from the thought of doing any act which shall tend to contribute to his election. He is the exponent of a policy that has deluged the fair fields of Kansas with blood. He is the chosen leader of a party that has violated every sacred obligation. The assurance that Slavery could not go into Kansas, made to allay our indignation at the repeal of the Missouri Compromise has been falsified. The specious promises held out to settlers, that they should establish their own Government and make their own laws, have all been most shamefully violated; and our fellow-citizens in Kansas are subjected to laws, forced upon them by foreign invasion, which are more regardless of their rights, and more oppressive, than any known despotism on the globe.

We cannot lose sight of these things, and we cannot forget that the Free-State men of Kansas look to the success of the Republican Party as their only hope for a redress of their grievances, and for their admission into the Union as a Free State? nor can we forget [illegible] Western Territory.

It is not our purpose to debate [illegible] it exists; but when a party seeks to change the early policy of our Government—when they ruthlessly break down the barriers which our wise forefathers erected against the extension of Slavery, and by fraud and violence force it into territory most solemnly dedicated to Freedom, we shall not fail to raise our voice to the utmost against such outrage and wrong.

It must not be inferred, from anything we have said, that we should support Fillmore, if the contest were really between him and Fremont. We certainly should not, for we regard him as quite as objectionable as Mr. Buchanan. He, like Buchanan, is wholly and fatally committed to the slavery-extension policy. He was nominated by the South, and not by the North, every Southern State but one voting for him; and the platform upon which he stands expressly indorses the Kansas-Nebraska act, that fatal source of our country's present woes. The Southern journals which support him, declare that he is as available for the purposes of Slavery as Buchanan himself, and his late speeches bear testimony that their confidence in him is not misplaced.

Entertaining these views, the path of duty is plain, and we take this method of publicly avowing our determination to give to the Republican Party and to their nominees our earnest, active and most hearty support. (Signed by 569 Americans.)

Secession of the South urged immediately on Fremont's election being declared.

From the Richmond Enquirer, Oct. 6.

Shall we try Mr. Fremont's administration and thereby give his party full time to prepare our destruction? Shall we wait for overt acts when the work will be half done before they are ventured on. Shall we look for safety to the Senate and incur the fate of the man who remains under his roof when an earthquake has prostrated all the pillars but one, and that is tottering on its base? Shall we acquiesce in Mr. Fremont's election because the forms of the Constitution are observed? They would be equally observed if the army were increased to a hundred thousand men and concentrated in the Southern States; if squadrons of war steamers were stationed in Southern ports and at the mouths of Southern rivers; if the forts in the South were commanded by Northern men, and every possible preparation made to subjugate us; and yet we should hardly be advised to acquiesce in such things because they were constitutional.

The question is whether the possibility of a constitutional administration by Mr. Fremont should induce us to give his party the immense advantage that will accrue from actual possession of the Government, if they determine to proceed with their assault on Slavery. That possibility is so small as to be a feather in the balance when weighed against the dangers of submission. Make the estimate calmly, consult the past history and present temper of abolition, examine the character of its candidate, and it seems the consummation of folly to sacrifice the advantages of prompt action to the hope that action will be unnecessary.

If secession be delayed until overt acts of aggression are committed on the South, it must be attended with bloodshed—for overt aggressions will not be attempted until preparation is made to use force. If Mr. Fremont's election be accepted as a declaration of war, and the South secede immediately, in all human probability the war will proceed no further than the declaration. By prompt secession we shall close the avenues of Federal corruption, and save our people from influences to which no people, however virtuous, should be subjected. Before those influences can be brought to bear we shall be beyond their reach. By prompt secession we shall erect a Government entitled to receive the allegiance of all our citizens, and to recall from the Federal service such of them as remain in it. At least one-half of the military officers of the present Government are natives of the South, and will not carry arms against her. But we must never permit them to be commanded by John Charles Fremont. He must never possess the right to treat them as deserters, but on his secession to power he should find them already in the service of another Government, equally legitimate with his own. Prompt secession will paralyze the military arm of the present Government, by withdrawing from it many of its best officers. Delay will expose them to the perplexities of a decision between the orders of their legally qualified commander and the cause of their native States.

By prompt secession we check at once the flow into the present treasury of revenues derived from Southern commerce, and divert those revenues to a treasury which will be used to defend, and not to destroy the South. We transfer Executive patronage from a Government which uses it to weaken and divide the South, to one which will use it to consolidate her power. We protect our citizens from corruption, and teach them that patriotism and fidelity to Southern interests are the only avenues to honor and emolument in the South.

By prompt secession we prepare for conflict, if one be inevitable, and meet it as a nation meets foreign war; by delay we invite attack and resist as rebels, unorganized, unprovided, without a treasury, without a military force, and relying wholly upon the sympathy of the rest of our citizens. Even then we should triumph; but what disasters, what bloodshed shall we not avoid by preparation.

It will be said that we shall be [illegible] action than before; that now we have the Fugitive Slave law, and then we shall have none. We have [illegible] Buchanan. [illegible] it exists; but when a party seeks to change the early policy of our Government—when they ruthlessly break down the barriers which our wise forefathers erected against the extension of Slavery, and by fraud and violence force it into territory most solemnly dedicated to Freedom, we shall not fail to raise our voice to the utmost against such outrage and wrong.

Outrage by a Negro upon a White Woman.

Great excitement—Narrow escape of the Negro from being Lynched.

From the Rochester Union, Oct. 8.

A brutal and revolting outrage was perpetrated yesterday in the town of Greece, at Hopper's Hollow, the mill on the Genesee, a negro upon a German girl, but, as it was, it was not so bad as it might have been, for the black villain did not fully succeed in accomplishing his hellish purpose. The prompt interference of persons who heard the cries of the female, frustrated his design and led to the arrest of the brute, who is now in jail awaiting the action of the law.

The particulars of the affair are about as follows: Yesterday morning two young German girls, who reside at Charlotte, started on foot to come to the city by the plank road. They were to be accompanied by Frederick Leidecker, a young man who resides in Oswego. He is a cousin of one of the girls, and had come up on the steamboat to visit his relatives. He told the girls to go on and that he would follow them. They accordingly started toward the city. This was about 1 o'clock. They had proceeded something more than a mile, and had reached Hopper's Hollow, where the Charlotte Railroad passes under the plank road, when they met a stout negro, who seized one of the girls, named Hieronne, and attempted to dr

Dear sir: Your friend, Mr. Chiseman, [illegible]

Sunshine, Friday, Oct. 3, 1856—8 o'clock.

Sir: In response to my appeal to you to name the earliest period for our meeting, I have a [illegible] to say that it will be impossible for Mr. Borts to reach Tuesday morning in the vicinity of Washington City. This, and the fact that you [illegible] the country, and it is hardly possible that my friend can reach you prior to that time, I am compelled, by every consideration, to request you to mention an later date, to appeal to your generosity against the very unnecessary delay you propose. I would suggest that you so far modify your arrangements as to appoint the meeting at sunrise on Wednesday, at such place in the neighborhood of Washington as you may suggest. Tree Hill, Hanover Co., Oct. 3, 1856—7 P. M.

Sir: Your note has just been handed me, and while I am disposed to accommodate you in every particular, not incompatible with my own arrangements, which have been made in accordance with what I understood to be, at least to my position, I regret that I do not feel at liberty to make the change you propose.

R. A. Pryor, Esq. B. B. BOTTS.

Sunshine, Friday, Oct. 3, 1856—5 P. M.

Sir: [illegible] the time and place, as expressed in your note of this date, to [illegible] the affair to unnecessary hazards [illegible] I will arrange with your assistant [illegible]

ROGER A. PRYOR.

It is also to be noticed that during this time public attention was directed to the matter by the challenge to challenge to Mr. Borts and, and that, apprised of the time, Mr. Pryor objected to the time and place, and proposed a meeting near Richmond the next morning, or earlier. To this Mr. B. B. Borts, as will be seen from the letter, dissented, as interfering with his arrangements and rights as the challenged party. I then proposed a North Carolina as preferable, to Mr. Borts, which was also rejected. Mr. Pryor [illegible] Friday night, and Sunday morning, [illegible] to a point out of Virginia, and accessible to the city of Washington." Apprehending from the extreme publicity given to the affair, that an arrest would take place if I traveled with Mr. Pryor, I left Richmond in advance of him, leaving him with Mr. Irvine, of Lynchburg, with whom he arrived near Washington Sunday evening.

On Monday, at 8 o'clock, according to arrangement, I called on Mr. F. S. Smith, the second of Mr. Borts, with whom I had a general understanding as to the terms, with the arrangement for a second in view, at 10 o'clock, to reduce the terms to writing. Shortly after we went to the ground, to prevent any mistake about it. Fearful of an arrest, I again separated from Mr. Pryor, and instructed Mr. Irvine to have him on the ground before day, as the leaving of the back after light might direct the police to the spot. Upon arriving at the arrival near the ground, which was about minutes after 5, nearly two hours before the hour of meeting, and before it was fully light—I met Mr. Irvine, who informed me that Mr. Pryor and himself had been on the ground some twenty minutes; I had been there some time, when Dr. Boyle, the surgeon, as it afterwards turned out, of Mr. Borts, arrived, and stated that he had passed a back with strangers in it. Immediately after, this hack arrived, and proved to contain the police officers, Mr. Pryor, myself, and Mr. Irvine immediately fled in the woods. Mr. Irvine, not being in the duelling category, very quickly returned, when, as he approached the road, one of them arrested him as Mr. Borts. After a short time they arrested me. Mr. Irvine then stated that our party had not been fairly treated, as the other party would doubtless hear of the arrest and avoid the field. To this one of the police replied at once, that the other party had stated at Rockville, Md., and could not consequently hear of the arrest. Afterwards they did arrive and were arrested. I subsequently learned that Mr. Borts had in reality been at Rockville the night before, and did come from that place to the field. He did not arrive until 6 and 7 o'clock, and when the [illegible] Mr. Tyler, of Richmond, saying that he had [illegible] to take Mr. Borts and Mr. Pryor back to Richmond, upon consultation with their friends, and [illegible] the inconvenience of giving bonds in Washington, pledged their honor not to attempt any breach of the peace in the District of Columbia, but to consider themselves as in the custody of Mr. Tyler.

During conversation between Mr. Tyler and Mr. Irvine, or also between Mr. Smith, Mr. Pryor, and Mr. Borts, as I learn from the last-named gentleman, Mr. Tyler stated that he accidentally heard at Ashland that the police on the same at that which had been [illegible] Borts, Ridgway and Pryor. The case [illegible] about 8 o'clock Monday morning. It was on the ground about before Mr. Tyler communicated the information to me. It therefore that strangers at Ashland [illegible] a general idea of the place [illegible] before it was known to me, as the second of Mr. Pryor. I also learn that the police succeeded in finding the precise place by following Dr. Boyle, the surgeon of Mr. Borts.

Shortly after the arrest, I, as also Mr. Irvine, by authority of Mr. Pryor, proposed then to make arrangements for a meeting after the parties should be bailed over, as we anticipated they would be, notwithstanding the expected recognizance. Mr. Smith assented to accordance then, with the statement that he had no doubt that it would be accepted when made after giving bonds, but he did not feel at liberty, while under arrest and pledge, to make arrangements for a meeting. Being satisfied from these facts that no effort would be made to secure a hostile meeting, I left Mr. R. B. Borts and Mr. Pryor with the understanding not connected with the matter, [illegible] the Hon. J. M. Borts, as also satisfied, from the peculiar condition of Mr. R. B. Borts, as exhibited on the field, that Mr. Pryor ought not to stand at fault. I have nothing more to do with the affair, and giving the correspondence and these facts to the public, I am, &c., in connection with it.

It is proper to add that Mr. Pryor succeeded in making the meeting and returning near the precise place of meeting, about the hour appointed for the meeting, and called up by Mr. Irvine.

T. P. CHISEMAN.

PARTICULARS OF THE AFFAIR.

From the National Intelligencer, Oct. 6.

The gentlemen Dust between Mr. Roger A. Pryor, Editor of the Richmond Dust Between Mr. Roger A. Pryor, Editor of the Richmond Enquirer, and Mr. Borts, son Mr. Jesse Marsh Borts, were yesterday, and Mr. Borts, son Mr. Jesse Marsh Borts, was wounded in the thigh. All day Monday efforts were made to find out and arrest a Mr. Burrs, who was to second to have come on from Richmond to act as a second for Mr. Borts, and also two other gentlemen as a similar errand for the other party, who had registered their names respectively on the hotel books as Messrs. Hunters and Brown; but the exertions of the officers were unavailing. Yesterday morning, however, about daybreak, the inquiry of a [illegible] passing of Washington having been observed to wend his way northwardly along Seventh-street, it was thought worth while to follow it as an unusual [illegible] Accordingly, officers Kerns, Yeatman and Bowerine, armed with United States warrants, [illegible] by other forces from Richmond, to be in the vicinity of the medical gentleman. The result was the arrest, about 8 o'clock Monday morning, [illegible] Mr. Burrs, who was observed to turn off from the main road into a lane, he was observed the right of [illegible] the place of late frequent [illegible] Borts, and [illegible] Mr. Borts, [illegible] within the bounds of one of the parties.

Lessons and Schurzes will also soon be brought out here. For the building of churches and school-houses, the Germans are slow. A little town, Hermann, in Missouri, which is exclusively inhabited by Germans, is said to be without even one single church or school-house.

But it is to be hoped that, in future, churches and school-houses will stand where public houses stand now. These public houses are the only drawback in our German settlers. In the old countries, where freedom is smothered, drinking may be necessary to drown the depressing influences of despotism; but here, where freedom woos the mind to culture, no such beastly compensation is called for, and we believe we have said sufficient to prove that our German fellow-citizens are born for higher and nobler uses than for schnapps and lager-bier.

The Question of Submission.

As the almost certainty of the election of Col. Fremont begins to loom up in the political horizon, the rabid nullifiers of the South grow more and more violent in their manner of discussing the great question, whether they will submit to be governed by him, when he takes his place as the Chief Executive officer of the Union. The non-submissionists are but few in number, but they are very rabid and very noisy, and they make up in violence what they lack in force and power. The leader of the crew is the Richmond Enquirer. Taking the cue from Mr. Fillmore, who first proclaimed the treasonable idea that the South would not, and ought not to submit, if the people should elect Fremont to the Presidency, this ultra-Southern journal now boldly avows itself in favor of secession, as will be seen by an article, full of sound and fury signifying nothing, which we extract from its leading column of Tuesday last. "Shall we acquiesce in Mr. Fremont's election because the forms of the Constitution are observed?" asks the Enquirer. Decidedly not. The Enquirer is in favor of immediate secession; it does not even propose to wait the result of the November election. Like Captain Scott's coon it goes up before a shot is fired, and assumes that it is already beaten. It probably has received some confidential information in relation to the state of political feeling in the Free States which has not yet been published. It does not seem to entertain a doubt of the success of the Republican candidate, and regards the only question now open for the South to be, "shall they give Fremont's Administration a trial." The Enquirer is screaming wild on this point; no March hare was ever half so mad. It counsels all the Southern officers in the Army and Navy never to submit to be commanded by John Charles Fremont.

But, readers of Virginia and South Carolina papers are too much accustomed to this sort of insane trumpery to be much alarmed by it. Barking dogs have always been proverbial for their harmlessness; and the Richmond Pasquins will never do anything worse than bluster, whether Fremont be elected or not. The Union-savers have no cause for apprehension from the roaring of the Bully Bottoms down South.

The Franking Privilege.

One of the sensible things proposed by Speaker Banks in his recent Philadelphia speech was the abolition of the franking privilege, though we are not so clear that any extrapay would be proper, as a compensation for the loss of this much abused privilege, to those who now enjoy it. It would be a matter of curious speculation how the present Presidential contest would have been affected by the abolition of the franking privilege. Never was the country so flooded with campaign matter under frank. Whole platoons of federal office-holders in Washington are busied day and night in dispatching their pestilent stuff. Congressmen have gone home, and given themselves up like monomaniacs to the single pursuit of affixing their names to the angles of envelopes. Ex-President Fillmore is said to be superhumanly industrious in the business—the first Ex-President who has used this little residuum of his departed greatness to make himself great again. And the main point, and the worst of it is, that under this cover all the most pernicious falsehoods, forgeries, and calumnies of the most vicious and degraded politicians receive free currency, and penetrate where the truth can by no ingenuity of competition make its way. Thus, all the falsehoods about Fremont's catholicity, his cattle contracts, his accounts; all the libels upon the constitutional aims of the Republican Party; all the fabrications, and glozing, and cloaking, the objects of the Democratic and American factions require; all have free course through the efficacy of this sadly-abused privilege. The cause of Freedom, having the great bulk of the newspaper press in its service, may dispense with this engine. Why not then dispense with it? Why not among other reforms to be achieved before another Presidential contest comes about,—if Brooks, Floyd, Wise, Keitt, and Co., permit it to come,—abolish the franking privilege?

Where there's so much Smoke there must be some Fire.—It is but a few days since the fact leaked out that a fund of seventy thousand dollars had been raised in this City to be used in securing the vote of Pennsylvania for Buchanan, the "favorite son" of that State. And now we have reports, which are too circumstantial not to be well-founded, of gigantic frauds being about to be perpetrated in Philadelphia in the coming election, by the addition of several thousands of bogus names to the "extra assessment list." Of course, bogus voters are not to be had for nothing, but such base rascals do not hold themselves at a very high figure, and seventy thousand dollars would purchase a good lot of them. They need a Vigilance Committee in Philadelphia to look after their ballot-box stuffers and bogus assessment lists.

Hanging Together.—"Will the Republican Party hang together, if successful?" asks the Richmond Enquirer, and then proceeds to reply in the affirmative at great length. But, if the example of the Enquirer should be followed by its compatriots, in such a contingency, there can be no doubt that some others of [illegible]

[illegible] Ex-Governor Floyd.—During the thickest of the fight in the engagement of the Constitution and Guerriere, a little boy on board the Constitution amused himself by chasing a goat about the gun-deck, quite heedless of the balls flying about, and the dead and wounded lying around him. Captain Byrnes of the Custom House, with the same reckless indifference to the terrific fight going on around him, and the danger he is in of having his head taken off, amuses himself by getting up a serenade for the benefit of Governor Floyd, at the St. Nicholas Hotel. It "came off," as the reporters say, on Monday night at midnight, and Governor Floyd, forgetting Lynchburg and the "greasy mechanics," indulged himself in some complimentary remarks about laboring men, which will sound very unorthodox in Virginia. The particular propriety of giving the Ex-Governor from Virginia a midnight serenade we do not understand, but Captain Byrnes probably does, or he would not have got it up. Seeing that hand-organs are so abundant, and street-music so common, a serenade cannot be a very great treat to the temporary resident of a Broadway hotel.

Unsuccessful Letter Writers.—The great letter-writers of the Straight Whig school appear to be peculiarly unsuccessful in their epistolary efforts to make converts to their own way of thinking. Mr. Choate's letter to the Whigs of Maine was followed by the first great Republican victory since the campaign opened. Then Ex-Governor Hunt, and Hon. Daniel D. Barnard wrote tremendously long letters to James A. Hamilton, Esq., of Westchester County, urging upon him the necessity and patriotic duty of voting for Mr. Fillmore. Whereupon Mr. Hamilton comes out with a long and sensible letter stating that a sense of duty to his country, and a conviction of the utter hopelessness of Fillmore's election, alike constrain him to do all in his power to promote the Republican cause. We fear that the ill-success that has attended the efforts of these distinguished Straight Whig letter-writers will deter the rest of them from writing any. If Mr. Hunt would but write a good long letter to Hiram Ketchum the chances are that he, too, might be brought over to Fremont.

A Pertinent Inquiry.—The English press is bestowing much greater notice upon American affairs at the present time than it ever did before, even when England was in a state of actual war with the United States. In a recent leader in the London Times we find the following:

"Can it be true that the time has come of what historians call the corruption of a race, and that the struggle of parties in the United States, the thirst for office, the greediness and rapacity which will form alliance with anybody rather than miss the spoils, the ballot-box and bowie-knife, have so far debased the Anglo-Saxon that he forgets the whole mission and policy of his race, and sinks into the friend and tool of the slaveowner?"

A few weeks will give a satisfactory response to this anxious inquiry. The Anglo-Saxon is in no immediate danger of giving out on this side the Atlantic.

From Europe.—The Arago, with the Havre and English mails of the 26th ult., arrived yesterday. Our advices by this steamer are later than those brought by the Asia [illegible], but some interesting details of the brief summary telegraphed from Quebec are received, and will be found in this morning's paper. We have a confirmation of the statement that a French and English squadron will be dispatched with an ultimatum to Naples, to be followed in all probability by the withdrawal of the Representatives of the Western Powers from the Court of the Two Sicilies. Letters from Spain indicate that the O'Donnell Ministry is in a tottering condition and that its fall may at any time take place.

The Niagara was also announced at a very late hour last night, as having arrived at Halifax, with three days' later news.

First Fruits of Fraternization.—The coalition which is being effected between the Democrats and Fillmoreites in this State is likely to prove very disastrous to the latter, if we are to judge from the accounts which have reached us since the movement was inaugurated. We publish this morning a circular from Otsego County, which comes to us signed by five hundred and eighty-nine Americans, in which they declare their intention to support the nominees of the Republican Party.

A God-send for the Express.—The German organ of the Buchaneers in Philadelphia, accuses Fremont of being a Hebrew by birth, and of having been educated in the Mosaic faith, besides being born in Alsace. As the Express must by this time be tired of calling Col. Fremont a Jesuit, it will be delighted of an opportunity to accuse him of being a descendant of Abraham.

Election Riots in Baltimore.—The Baltimore City election took place yesterday, and was attended by the most disgraceful scenes of riot and bloodshed, as will be seen by our telegraphic report. The Fillmoreites were successful in the election.

The Meat Markets.

There was a fair supply of Cattle at Forty-fourth-street, yesterday, though generally of but medium quality. Prices experienced no advance over last week's depressed rates. Mutton and Veal is also in fair supply.

Amusements.

City Assembly Rooms.—Mr. Marezzek's second lyric concert came off last night, and attracted a densely crowded and highly fashionable audience. The operatic selection from the "Star of the North" was of course the attraction of the evening. Music like this requires to be heard several times before it can be properly appreciated; the oftener it is listened to the more it will be enjoyed. We were glad to notice the enthusiasm with which the several encores were received. This was just to the composer, and to the artists who exerted themselves in a highly creditable manner. The second part of the programme contained a large selection of approved good pieces, but a little more instrumental music, might, we think, have been introduced. By the way, we were glad to observe that a vast improvement has been effected in the position of the orchestra; the drumminess to which we objected in our last notice is entirely obviated.

The success of these Concerts is now established, and they have deservedly become the attraction of the moment. Mr. Marezzek, encouraged by the crowded attendance of last night, announces a third Concert for Friday evening.

German Opera.

Lortzing's Opera of "Undine," will positively be produced to-night for the first time in America. It has been prepared with care, and will no doubt achieve a success. We are assured there will be no further postponement.

The Missouri Compromise.

Whether or not the Missouri Compromise is a sacred institution has been a good deal agitated for three years past. Those who never attend the meetings are quite satisfied that it is; those who do attend are divided. To judge by some of the papers thrown out there during the year, learned long and loud enough to show who are pretty posted in local geography, when half the members sleep through half the discussion, and only wake to applaud the conclusion, one would certainly get the impression that the Society was slightly benighted. On the other hand, no learned Society in the metropolis is so punctually and so well attended. The seats are always filled, and many in attendance are obliged to stand throughout the evening. It was a thought worthy of Young America which first suggested the chocolate and muffins that always fetch up the rear of the lectures, and possibly may have something to do with the largeness of the attendance. Then the boldness of the Society in venturing upon the construction of a fire-proof building, and carrying it so rapidly on to a point from which completion will be an easy job, certainly belongs to this and no past age. Then if the papers are sometimes a bit musty, it must be remembered that it would hardly be in keeping for a historical society to deal principally in passing events—musty documents, dusty records and worm-eaten old books are within its legitimate diet. No society here turns out so distinguished a company of fossil trees and sirens. Tuesday night was the opening night of the season. We missed the respectful presence of Governor Brandeg, who usually presides with such dignity, and in kids, for Dr. Dewitt acted as president in his stead. On his left sat Frederick Depeyster, Esq., whose acquiline nose, whose chin, alone of all his face covered with hair, and whose rounded standing-collar are seldom absent. Next him sat the world-renowned Geographer of Palestine, Rev. Dr. Robinson. It is hard to believe, what is true notwithstanding, that his beetling forehead, heavy eyebrows and thoroughly German face belong to a native-born Yankee. The small matt on the President's right, with black hair and all his face except his upper lip surrendered to the growth of jet-black whiskers which he strokes affectionately, is Rev. Dr. Osgood. No one ever showed more exactly in his face the kind of speech that he would make. You see at the first glance that he will talk with great fluency, rising occasionally to eloquence, but in his language as in his manner, never letting you for a moment forget—what his white cravat has already announced—that he is a clergyman. On his right is Ex-Alderman Chauncey, the reformer, a stout goodly-looking man—with iron-gray hair and black eyebrows, an active member of the Society and has busied himself to its advantage in getting the material for the new fire-proof building. Not upon the stage, but in a front seat, sits Mr. Bancroft, of course; distinguished from all present by his close-cut iron-gray hair; his brilliant eyes, notwithstanding his spectacles; his perpendicular whiskers; and, when he speaks, by his thin, piping voice, which, for all its thinness, is likely to be heard in the world some time longer than that of most of his cotemporaries. Sitting on the edge of the platform, his hands clasped over his knee—the man who would be tall if, he stood up, who wears specs, is slightly bald, but makes up for that in the business of his black whiskers—is Augustus Schell, famous as the man who was beaten over the head by some brutes at Tammany, and died, according to the evening papers, but came to life again in the morning issues, and commanded the Hard Shells down to the day when Hards and Softs, like crabs in Summer time, cast their shells alike, and all went in together for the spoils.

The rest of the audience is very familiar to any one who attends these meetings, or those of the Academy of Medicine, or the gatherings of the municipal reformers—stout and hearty clergymen, retired editors, merchants that have a literary lean, physicians who, wearied of practice, are writing books for fame, or, out of a job for the evening, drop in to refresh their literary acquaintance and drink chocolate together. The venerable white-haired gentleman who sits in the arm-chair near the desk, is Judge Macdonald, of Long Island, whose paper is the attraction of the evening—and a very juicy, readable paper it proved—[illegible]

It was read [illegible] by Gouverneur M. Ogden, the librarian, who [illegible]

Mr. Macdonald [illegible] described the battle of White Plains, or Chatterton Hill, as it is sometimes called, with great minuteness; showing the positions and describing the movements of the American, British and Hessian troops. Washington's able strategy in Westchester at this time was commemorated in terms of high eulogy. Due praise for courage and skill was at the same time bestowed upon some of the enemy's officers, particularly upon General Leslie and the Hessian Colonel Ball, who commanded the King's forces in their attack of the Americans posted at Chatterton Hill. McDougall was shown to have acted with great coolness and ability. The troops he commanded, for the most part, behaved with much bravery, particularly the New-York Regiment, under Ritzema, and the Delaware and Maryland Battalions, under Haslet and Smallwood. Webb's Connecticut Militia also resisted the British attacks with as much steadiness as the regular regiments. McDougall displayed great address in withdrawing his forces from the Hill, so as to reunite himself with the Commander-in-Chief. The merits of this officer, in whom Washington reposed unbounded confidence, have never been justly appreciated.

A particular account was given of the manner in which Washington, at night, evacuated the works at White Plains, and took up a new and impregnable position, without any suspicion of what he was doing on the part of the Royal officers until the following day. They then reconnoitered the American lines from one end to the other, being supported upon the occasion by the main body of their army. Some skirmishes ensued, but the new position was found too strong to justify attack. Sir William Howe, in consequence, withdrew towards King's Bridge.

The reading was often interrupted by applause, and often by laughter.

When it was ended—and though it took fifty minutes in the reading, the interest was undiminished to the last—

Mr. Bancroft moved thanks to the author in a neat speech of compliment.

On motion of Mr. Chauncey, a Committee of five was appointed to memorialize the Legislature for assistance to finish the Fire-Proof Library Building. The following are the Committee: Messrs. Schell, Depeyster, Osgood, Chauncey and Folsom.

Mr. Chauncey said that to finish the building the Society was now about $15,000 in arrears. It would be inclosed and externally completed this Fall, after which work would be suspended until Spring.

Adjournment was then taken to the Library-Room, where the new Janitor, Mr. Jas. R. Halliday, had made unusually abundant preparations of chocolate, tongue and their complements.

The Old-Line Whigs after a Mayor.

The Old-Line Whigs,—what is left of them—met last evening at Constitution Hall to nominate a Mayor. They did not reach that desired end. An actual Old-Line Whig, a straight Whig, unmistakably such, who could run for the Mayoralty with the most distant prospect of success, is harder to find than the North pole. The Old-Liners accordingly did the next best thing to a nomination. They selected a Committee, one from each Ward, to wait upon Mr. Isaac O. Barker, the Know-Nothing, Fillmore, Ernstus Brooks candidate for Mayor, and ascertain his opinions on the goose question. If he is sound he will be their unanimous choice, and should he be a little unsound it is said they have no better man to offer. At Baltimore they struck in for Fillmore and Donelson, and they will go the municipal ticket in New-York. The result of the interview with Mr. Barker will be communicated on Thursday evening, the 16th inst., to which time the meeting adjourned.

German Democratic Meeting.

The German Democratic mass meeting which has been in preparation for about a month past, and which has been largely advertised for several days, came off last night at Tammany Hall. Mr. Ottendorfer, of the Staats Zeitung, called the meeting to order and nominated Wm. A. Konze, Esq., as President. The first speaker was Dr. Kreisman of St. Louis, who spoke violently against the Republican Party. He, however, stated that it was in his opinion perfect folly to think that if John C. Fremont was elected President there would be any danger of a dissolution of the Union.

Hon. Mr. Belly of Cincinnati was the next speaker, and spoke in the same strain.

At no time were there more than 400 persons in [illegible]

On the stage of the Hall of Science there was a meeting of about 50. Mr. Ottendorfer was the speaker.

On the City Hall steps there was very numerous, and were addressed by various speakers.

The transparencies displayed at both of these meetings were mostly in English, borrowed from the Empire Club.

Fifteenth Ward R. N's.

In the Ward of the City in a political meeting more politely and genteelly managed than in the Fifteenth. Bearing this in mind, we dropped in at Academy Hall, on Tuesday evening, to see what a Know-Nothing meeting looked like. There were no front seats reserved for ladies, as is the custom at Republican meetings. The large hall was well filled, the third of the audience nearest the door, however, occupying itself with free conversation in a voice loud enough at times to make it necessary for the President to rap out "order" peremptorily to enable the speaker to continue. Among the most attentive listeners were three small boys in a front seat, who smoked the vilest of cigars without a hint of any impropriety in so doing from anybody. The chair was occupied by a venerable gray-bearded cove. Two reporters—not the two who disgrace the profession by loud talking in meeting time—worked away like well paid clerks on the right, jotting down the sharp things that the speaker said. The speaker on this occasion was

Col. T. B. Thorpe, of Louisiana. The colonel makes a good speech; that is, considering his cause. He seemed to be especially got up for the occasion, for his cravat never got so far out of fix before surely. It would be difficult to recognize in his stout figure, broad square face and whiskers cut squarely, as if to keep up an original determination to seem as square as possible, any such looking person as could justly the Knickerbocker gallery in the outrageous caricature it furnished for his portrait. He treated Buchanan very much as the Fremonters treat him—taking his solid contents by the same rule that men measure planks, which she fair enough seeing that Mr. Buchanan—unknown himself as nothing but a platform now. He raked down Gerrit Smith, who gives $10,000 to furnish Kansas emigrants with rifles, but when the Missouri Compromise was on its passage could not sit up later than 9 o'clock even to save his country. The Missouri Compromise was abrogated, he believed, on motion of a Vermont-born man, was fished out of a Committee room into which it had been put to its long sleep on motion of a Saratoga Abolitionist; was log-rolled through by Northern members, and signed at last by a Northern President. He believed that if a Southerner had been in the White House he would have vetoed the bill and saved his country. But the Colonel did not propose, notwithstanding all this, to administer any special rebuke to the doughfaces who did the mortal mischief.

When we left he was showing that inasmuch as members of Congress had all the voting to do upon such matters as Kansas, it was no sort of consequence what the President's views might be.

A Card from John N. Genin.

As a belief is said to exist among a portion of my friends that I intend to run as an independent candidate for the Mayoralty, and as the well-meant zeal of such friends may place me in a false light before the public, I think it best "to define my position," unmistakeably. It will be that of a "looker on in Vienna," nothing more. The good, easy, long-forbearing people of New-York have not been sufficiently fleeced by political freebooters to elect an independent candidate. They are still it would seem willing to leave their municipal affairs to the unchecked guidance of the political plunderers whose tender mercies they have so long experienced. Possibly when shearing has been abandoned for flaying, (and it is fast coming to that) when the City taxes shall have reached the sum of $10,000,000 per annum, for instance, public opinion, if it has not exploded in a Vigilance Committee movement, may run towards independent candidates. But as yet the ultimate point of human forbearance has not been reached, and I am no Curtius to leap into the gulf in the vain hope of helping those who are unwilling to help themselves; Ergo, I shall not run as an "independent candidate for Mayor."

In thus retiring to the back ground, and assuming the quiet attitude of an observer, I would gratefully acknowledge the political encouragement I have received from the mechanic interest, and especially from the workmen of my own trade, whose confidence in my integrity, if not in my ability, induced them to [illegible]

Therefore, when the smoke and turmoil of the great national contest shall have passed away, I propose to [illegible] for the direction, management and discipline of industry and speculation in the various departments of the City Government. The Augean stable can be cleansed if the broom is placed in the right hands, and wielded in the right way. That the plan I intend to propose is feasible and practicable I feel well convinced, and have no doubt that the people of New-York will agree with me.

In the meantime I may possibly give my fellow-citizens the benefits of my experience as a failed candidate for Mayor, and exhibit to them in broad day light and with full explanations, the wheels, cogs, belts, treadles, springs and wires of that complex engine of corruption by which political aspirants are brought into a proper frame of mind to be used by political trucksters to an unlimited extent. Through this mill I have passed and am thoroughly acquainted with its operation. There is another and a stronger machine which is generally applied at the eleventh hour, of which I have no experience and do not mean to have. It will be interesting to the public, I think, to take a peep behind the scenes, and learn precisely the blessed influences which combine to bring candidates before the people in this enlightened age. If the expose should induce the people of New-York to think about taking the business of selecting candidates into their own hands, it would be a very great satisfaction to their friend and fellow-citizen,

JOHN N. GENIN.

Briggs up Again.

Alderman John H. Briggs was nominated on the first ballot last evening by the Americans, for re-election as Alderman of the Thirteenth Ward. There was a very large attendance of the Council present. His opposing candidates were Councilman Wm. Floyd and Gilbert C. Deane, who was a member of the Fillmore Presidential Convention, and is an elector on the Fillmore Presidential Ticket for the State of New-York. Mr. Deane was also a member of the State Convention that nominated the Presidential Electoral Ticket. He was also a member of the Mayoralty Convention. Alderman Briggs had a majority over both Councilman Floyd and Mr. Deane for Alderman, and afterwards his nomination was declared unanimous. Messrs. Floyd and Deane magnanimously assured Alderman Briggs that they should do all in their power to effect his election. And Mr. Deane offered to bet $100 that Alderman Briggs would be elected, but found no one to take it. An elegant festival closed the happy occasion.

Ruffianly Proceeding—Attack upon a German Republican Procession.

On Tuesday evening, while the German Republicans of the Seventeenth Ward were marching in procession through Eleventh-street, near Second-avenue, to attend the Hecker meeting at the Academy of Music, a brutal attack was made upon them with stones, clubs, knives and other weapons, by a gang of ruffians numbering about fifty. The cowardly assailants were wise enough not to attack the whole of the procession, but only about twenty men who were in the rear. The attack was made so suddenly that before those at the head of the procession had time to return to the aid of their companions behind, the ruffians had fled and were not to be found. Four of the Germans were felled to the pavement, and one of them, named Muller, was so dangerously stabbed that he had to be conveyed home by his friends, and there are now some doubts of his recovery. Dr. Schramm is also reported to be seriously injured.

It is asserted that at the time of the assault several policemen were standing by, but did not interfere in any way to prevent the breach of the peace.

We understand that a committee to investigate the outrage, and bring, if possible, the perpetrators to justice, has been appointed. A complaint against the policemen who were present but did not interfere will be made.

☞ At a meeting of German delegates to the Republican City Convention held last evening at Pythagoras Hall, it was announced that Wm. F. Havemeyer had consented to become a candidate before the Convention for nomination as Mayor. It was unanimously resolved by the delegates present to support Mr. H. Judge Carson was the favorite for nomination as City Judge, and it was thought but right, as the majority of the Germans in New-York were now with the Republicans, that a citizen of German birth should be nominated for Governor of the Almshouse. Ernstus Wiesmann, Dr. Bahrenhemmer and Dr. Wiesman were named in this connection.

Hon. Edwin Morgan and Chauncey Shafter, Esq., of New-York, will address the Republicans o[illegible]

DR. TURNBULL,
SURGEON AND AURIST,
(From Germany,)

Is at the Everett House, Union-square, where he may be consulted.

☞ Office hours from 9 A. M. to 2 P. M.

From the London Times.

A number of persons recently deceased have been produced by a process recently discovered by Dr. Turnbull, at the house of Dr. Turnbull, to whom the bodies were applied for the cure of Deafness and Blindness.

Between twenty and thirty patients attended, many of whom, it was stated by their friends, had been deaf and dumb. They were subjected to a process, by which it was proved that the deafness had been caused by the application of Dr. Turnbull's Ear Drums, which appears most singular, in that where the deafness had been caused by paralysis of the auditory nerve, or by a tympanum, or obstruction of the Eustachian tube, hearing had been obtained; or, conversely, where deafness had been caused by the application of the Ear Drums, persons who had been deaf and dumb for many years, found that they had been completely cured, and can now see perfectly well.

We agree with the learned Chemists, that Dr. Turnbull has, by patience and ingenuity, obtained a cure of many new medicaments and methods, considered to be quite incurable, such as were never cured before.

LITTLE, BROWN & CO.
STORY'S POEMS.
POEMS, BY WM. W. STORY.
One vol., 12mo. Price, $1.
From the Boston Transcript.
The verse of Mr. Story is of a high order, and his volume may take its place beside the best productions of the American press. His poems will be prized by those who have a true estimate of poetic taste, art, and melodious construction.

THE BRITISH POETS.
THOMAS HOOD.
From the Boston Daily Advertiser.
We cannot speak too highly in praise of this edition (the only one that deserves the name of complete) of the British Poets.
From the New-York Times.
We really know nothing more worthy of the cordial support of the American public than this Boston edition of the English Poets.
From the New-York Courier and Enquirer.
A fairer-printed, a more useful, or a more valuable set of books, cannot be placed in any library.
From the Home Journal.
The best, the most permanently valuable, the most convenient, and the cheapest edition of the standard poetical literature of Great Britain ever published.
From the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.
We regard it as the most beautiful and convenient library edition of the British Poets yet published.
From the Bibliotheca Sacra.
We do not know any edition of the British Poets which combines so many excellences.

THE POETICAL WORKS OF THOMAS HOOD.
TWO ADDITIONAL VOLUMES JUST ISSUED.
Making in all four volumes. Price $3.
This is the largest collection of Hood's Poems yet offered to the public, either in England or America.
We have in press and shall issue soon, the Works of MOORE, SOUTHEY, SCOTT, MONTGOMERY, CRABBE, MARWELL, CHATTERTON and CHAUCER.
The remainder of the series will be published as fast as the volumes can be prepared.

THE BRITISH ESSAYISTS.
SIX NEW VOLUMES.
THE ADVENTURER—THREE VOLUMES.
THE WORLD—THREE VOLUMES.
16mo.....75 Cents per Volume.
From the Boston Daily Advertiser.
No greater service can be done in the cause of good letters than the extensive dissemination of these standard compositions. They embrace the best models of style in the English language.
From the Boston Daily Chronicle.
Their claims, indeed, are very great to the respect and attention of the reading world. Such men as Steele, Johnson and Hawkesworth were among the first writers of their time.
From the Boston Post.
"The Tattler," "The Rambler," "The Guardian," "The Spectator," "The Adventurer," written by such men as Steele, Johnson, Addison, Hawkesworth, are standard compositions—models of good old English. So varied and often amusing are they, so certain to cultivate a pure style, that we hardly know how a more judicious selection could be made of works to make a family library than this edition of these Essays.
From the Boston Atlas.
As models of English prose they stand unrivaled, and deserve a place in every library, public or private, but especially in every school and town library in the country.
From the New-York Times.
A series of standard works, the value and popularity of which have only increased with time. Those who admire, as we do, the pure Saxon of Benjamin Franklin and William Cobbett, will recollect that both taught themselves to write by taking papers from "The Spectator" as their models, translating them, as it were, into their own language, and then comparing the original with their own versions.
From the Philadelphia Bulletin.
A beautiful edition—just the right size to hold in the hand without fatigue, and with type that can never hurt or weary the eyes.

AMERICAN HISTORY.
A GREAT WORK COMPLETED!
THE LIFE AND WORKS OF JOHN ADAMS,
SECOND PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.
EDITED BY HIS GRANDSON, CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS.
10 volumes 8 vo. $22 50. Volumes 1 and 10 just published.
From Rufus W. Griswold.
Of the writings of our Revolutionary worthies none have been presented to the public with as much ability, care and good faith as those of John Adams. The main portion of the labor devolved on Charles Francis Adams, who has devoted to it several years, and has set an example of thorough research and sound judgment which cannot be too highly commended.
From the Puritan Recorder.
It is a work for the statesman to read and study, a work especially suited to young men—a work with which we can well afford to identify our national reputation.
From the National Era.
Every student of American history, American laws, usages and institutions, should make himself acquainted with these papers, containing, as they do, the reflections of a mind of great comprehension, deep sagacity and extensive learning on the fundamental principles of government.
From the Philadelphia Bulletin.
One of the most valuable contributions yet made to American history.
From the Boston Transcript.
Such a contribution to American history we have not had before, except in the collection of the Writings of Washington and Jefferson. Probably in literary value and interest this will surpass them both.
From the North American Review.
A contribution to the materials of American history not second in importance and interest to any of the great publications with which it is most obviously to be compared.
From the New-York Tribune.
The completion of this voluminous work, containing a full collection of Mr. Adams' writings, is a matter of congratulation to every student of American history. The editor has performed his responsible task with dignity, intelligence and an evident aim at rigid impartiality. Many of his views in regard to the comparative position and merits of eminent American statesmen are, doubtless, open to controversy; no one can call in question the thoroughness of his research, and the clearness of his comprehension in relation to the events of the first half century of our national existence, which come within the scope of his biographical labors. The publishers, we need hardly add, have brought out these volumes in the style of substantial elegance which is characteristic of their house.

THE PURITAN COMMONWEALTH.
An Historical Review of the Puritan Government in Massachusetts in its Civil and Ecclesiastical Relations, from its Rise to the Abrogation of the First Charter.
Together with some general reflections on the English Colonial Policy, and on the Character of Puritanism.
BY THE LATE PETER ELTON.
This work treats of the construction of the Puritan Commonwealth of Massachusetts, its failure to accomplish the end of all good government, in the preservation of good order and the prevention of immorality; it discusses the Puritan Church, its intolerance, as shown in the persecutions of the Familists, Quakers and Baptists, and its Missionary claims, as compared with those of the Church of England and the Church of Rome: it asserts the gradual degeneracy of the Puritans, after their separation from the great Catholic body, and lastly contains reflections on the English Colonial policy, and on the general character and tendencies of Puritanism.
In one vol. 8vo. Price, $2 25.

IT IS MAKING ITS MARK!
MR. ALDRICH'S NEW BOOK:
DAISY'S NECKLACE,
AND WHAT CAME OF IT.
One neat 12mo. Price, 75 cents.
A few good judges smack their lips over it, viz.:
From the Lowell, Mass., Vox Populi.
We have read this beautiful prose poem, (for it is nothing less) with delighted attention; and find it truly a "necklace" of pearly thoughts, pure from the heart depths of the poet. Mr. Aldrich is already a great favorite with thousands in whose heart his beautiful and graceful poems have found an answering echo.
From the New-Bedford Mercury.
They are rich in touches of delightful sentiment and delicate thought, reminding the reader of the Marvelle Dream Land of many shadowy experiences, and intimations of a higher and different life, that he and all of us have at some time in our earthly pilgrimage. It is as poetical as rythmical gems of the same author, and to many an ear will have sweeter music that it is not in measured verse.
From the Boston Daily Rec.
It is juicy with fun, and glitters all over with wit and sarcasm, not of the noisy style, but of a quiet, sharp and genuine sort. There are lots of matter to laugh over in these pages; and we will only further hint that those who desire to get up a shower of sunshine and fun should get the work.
From the Portsmouth Journal.
A novel of the most novel kind. It is more of a conversational than of a set cast—brilliant ideas come out, as well as poetic thoughts, clothed in fine language. Few readers can peruse the chapter on Real-Land without deep interest. The whole is a necklace of diamonds and pearls, dimmed with a brass bead here and there.
From the Sunday Atlas.
It will bring the dew of human sympathy to many an eye, and quicken the eager pulse of youth. It—but get the book and read it any rate, and, our word for it, whoever does so will put it aside with regret, and wish for a more intimate acquaintance with its author.
From the Boston Transcript.
There is quiet humor and deep pathos in the book. It is chaste and it is natural, and it leaves the mind pure and serene, and deeply impressed with the exceeding beauty of love to God and man.

REVENUE ASSESSMENTS PRELIMINARY TO FENCING VACANT LOTS.

The following communication was received from the Comptroller:

DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE, COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE, NEW-YORK, Monday, Oct. 6, 1856.

To the Common Council:

Complaints have been made to this Department during the preceding twelve months in regard to the manner of fencing vacant lots, and the extravagant amounts on property holders for the work done. Many of these assessments have been confirmed by the Common Council, and have been handed over by the Bureau for the collection of assessments. The actions taken by the Bureau, for payment of a most extravagant charge, in the first notice gives to the property holder, as is stated by the complainants in regard to the performance of work which is to entail a heavy lien on his lots, without any useful, necessary or equitable consideration to the owner of the land or property.

Some of the applicants for redress against these [illegible] have applied to the Comptroller, and he [illegible] to attempt to reconcile the Common [illegible] on the subject, and he has promised them the [illegible] of the Finance Department, as far as it [illegible] legal power, to secure justice to the property-holder.

The first case to which the Comptroller desires to call the attention of the Common Council is that of the lots of the estate of Isaac Burr, and for whom James E. Titus, Esq., is agent. The vacant lots referred to are in the Nineteenth Ward, between the Fourth and Fifth avenues, and Fortieth and Forty-fourth streets. In November, 1854, an ordinance was passed in the usual general terms, for fencing these and other "vacant lots if necessary." In regard to this act, and the operations under it, Mr. Titus, in his memorial to the Common Council, says:

"That no notice of such ordinance was ever served on the owners of said lands, though they have been actual residents and householders in this City for many years, and are constantly receiving at their residences other notices emanating from the Corporation of the City or its public officers, nor was any such notice ever served on the subscriber as their agent.

"That the first intimation received of the existence of said ordinance was a notice from the Collector of Assessments that the said lands had been charged in the aggregate with the sum of $1,749 86 for fencing a portion of said vacant lots under said ordinance; that thereupon the subscriber caused an investigation to be made into the proceedings for the said assessments, and, after diligent inquiry, has understood that ten or more different contracts were entered into by the late Street Commissioner, with the same individual contractor, for fencing and inclosing as many different plots of said lands at sums severally under $250 each.

"And your memorialist further shows that after careful examination had by the direction of your memorialist, no written contracts, or records, or copies of them among the papers in the Public Offices of the Corporation can be found, and no evidence that any proposals for the work were ever advertised for, under such ordinance, or that any competition was invited for the same,—but he believes that the said contracts were given out privately without affording an opportunity for competition.

"And he further shows that all the work under said contracts done on said lands, could have been done more economically and expeditiously under one contract, than such a multiplicity of subdivisions.

"And he knows of no reason for subdivisions unless to avoid the requiring for advertising for bids, as he is informed that no advertisement for work is required when a job amounts to less than $250.

"And he further shows that the work done under said contracts was imperfect and insufficient, and with inferior materials. That a considerable portion of the fence required to be reset shortly after it was erected, at the expense of said owners, and that on the north side of Forty-first-street a fence was erected without side or rear fences, and inclosed nothing. That the prices charged for said work are, in every instance, exorbitant and extortionate. The number of running feet fenced was 1,800, the assessment for which is $1,749 86, while your memorialist has subsequently put upon the same tract in a much better manner 1,641 feet, for the sum of $792 36, materials and all included in both cases."

John M. Bixby, Esq., is the owner of a lot on the north side of Forty-fifth-avenue and Fortieth-street. This lot is included in the same assessment with the lots belonging to the estate of Isaac Burr. Mr. Bixby is charged $69 14 for 107 feet of hemlock fence. Mr. Bixby will present a memorial to the Common Council, and both he and Mr. Titus are resolved not to pay the charges until they have exhausted every legal remedy.

On considering the assessment roll for fencing the lots referred to in the memorials of Messrs. Titus and Bixby, we find appended to the roll twelve certificates, all dated Nov. 14, 1855, certifying to twelve separate contracts, for various sums under $250, as stated in a subsequent part of this report, but all made with John McClave; and yet these twelve contracts are under one Ordinance and are covered by one assessment for the aggregate sum of $8,251 63.

The above sum is cut up into twelve separate jobs, and the assessors are furnished with twelve certificates, certifying that twelve contracts had been awarded and given to John McClave. The contracts referred to in these twelve certificates could not be found by Mr. Titus, and the Finance Department has searched for them in vain. It is probable that the twelve contracts existed only in a verbal understanding between James Varey and John McClave.

As to the terms of these contracts, no record is found, it appears, however, is shown in the memorial of Mr. Titus, which shows that the Street Department awarded to John McClave at the rate of $1 94 for fence which Mr. Titus had put up for thirty cents a foot.

The certificate which an expense of $8,251 63 has been made a lien on the unprofitative and heavily taxed property of the innocent females who are the owners of the Burr estate, contemplated the construction of 4,237 feet of fence, between Thirty-ninth and Forty-first streets, and the Fourth and Fifth avenues, "where necessary." We have no evidence that any portion of this fence was necessary. Most of it, as stated by Mr. Titus, was a long line, with the whole lot open beyond it; in fact fencing in nothing and nothing and nothing. In some cases where John McClave has a claim confirmed by the Common Council for four times the actual value, first-class houses are now going up, and the remnants of the costly fence erected in 1855 is now to be seen on the lot, and exists only as a line on the roll of the Assessors in the Street Department.

Any fair minded person who examines the copy of the Assessment (No. 2) in connection with the 12th section of the Charter of 1853, will see that it was the imperative duty of the Street Commissioner in executing the ordinance to embrace the whole in a number of contracts. If this had been done, a contract could have been made with responsible persons who would take up the fence at thirty cents per foot. At this rate, 4,237 feet would have cost $1,271 10, instead of $8,251 63, showing a difference in favor of the property holders equal to $6,523 53. This statement shows that the favorite recipient of twelve jobs under $250, must have realized a clear profit of about [illegible] per cent.

It appears, however, from the examinations made, that the twelve jobs were paid June 11, 1855, although they have all been embodied by the Assessors in one roll, and confirmed by the Common Council, at $8,251 63, Feb. 1856.

The certificate presented to the Comptroller in the memorials of Messrs. Titus & Bixby, has inserted like to have a tissue. From information made, it appears that a bitter altercation between the late Street Commissioner and John McClave, is the result of this examination shows the following facts:

On the 22d of November, 1854, an ordinance passed the Common Council, directing "That the vacant lots on Thirty-ninth, Fortieth, and Forty-first streets, between the Fourth and Fifth avenues, and on the Fourth and Fifth avenues, between Thirty-ninth and Fortieth streets, be fenced where necessary."

A copy of this original ordinance is annexed, marked No. 1.

On the 10th of November, 1855, twelve certificates were sent to the Bureau of Assessors in the Street Department, certifying that certain contracts for fencing McClave, and the work completed, [illegible]

[illegible] Commissioner, per Charles [illegible]

[illegible] certificates is annexed, marked [illegible] the Assessors, and of [illegible] marked No. [illegible] Assessment list, as shown in [illegible]

[illegible] Monday, Oct. 6, 1856, that [illegible] No. 4.

[illegible] Boyle, Esq., Chairman of the Committee, reported [illegible] Fifth-ward School, and the [illegible] Surveyor's certificate.

By the same resolution, the Surveyor, Maynard Boyle, returns $7,812 remaining due on Sewer, at a cost of $3,[illegible] per ft.

Schedule No. 3 presents a copy of the map figures, as attached to the assessment list, with the Ward numbers referred to in the assessment list.

For the purpose of illustrating the manner in which the original ordinance was cut up into twelve jobs, each of these jobs is lettered from A. to N.

By referring to Schedule No. 2 and No. 3, it will be seen that a contract, marked A. 1, was certified to be completed at an amount of $400 12, broken up (although stated in one contract) into two portions, $241 and $245 75.

This was for fencing a straight line as certified by the heading of the certificate and shown on the map on Forty-first-street from Fifth to Madison-avenues.

The Comptroller suggests that the Common Council review all the assessments, as well those which have been confirmed as those which have not, and that the charges be reduced to the sum of 30 cents per foot for the fence done; and that the Comptroller be authorized to settle with John McClave at these rates for all the fence put up by him, taking into the adjustment the payments already made on his jobs.

As the case now stands, the Comptroller will resist payment on the claims of John McClave, until the Courts decide as to the validity of this mode of performing the work. Respectfully submitted,

A. C. FLAGG, Comptroller.

The Board adjourned to Friday next.

BOARD OF COUNCILMEN.

A quorum being present, this Board last evening assembled for the first time in the October term, BENJAMIN F. PINCHNEY, Esq., in the Chair. The minutes of the last meeting of the September term, and of the special meeting convened on the death of Lorenzo B. Shepard, having been read and approved, some petitions of no public importance were read, and either approved or referred. A petition from the Captains of Police in reference to increase of salaries, was referred to the Committee on Salaries. A petition of property holders on Duane-street, facing Duane-park, to have the iron railing on the south side of Duane-park set back 20 feet, that it might conform to the line of the present buildings east of the Park on Duane-street, was referred to the Committee on Streets.

EXECUTIONS REFERRED.

That Croton water be introduced in Fifty-first-street, between Eighth and Tenth avenues, under direction of the Croton Board. That the side-walks in Allen-street, between Division and Grand streets, on the north side, be flagged, under the direction of the Street Commissioner. To pave Broadway, between Fiftieth and Fifty-ninth streets, with Belgian pavement. To pave Columbia-street and Avenue A, from Grand-street to Fourteenth-street, with Belgian pavement.

The Board then adjourned to Friday.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

The Board of Supervisors held their second meeting of the October session at their room, in the City Hall, yesterday afternoon.

The Committee on Annual Taxes reported with reference to the communications received from the Comptroller and Receiver of Taxes concerning certain errors on the tax-books at the last meeting. The Committee reported that they were satisfied there were errors, and recommended that the Committee on Annual Taxes, together with the Clerk, should have power to examine the books and make the necessary corrections. Supervisor TUCKER said the whole matter had occurred in consequence of the passage of a resolution, taking the work of correction out of the office of the Comptroller. Supervisor HERRICK said the statement by Mr. TUCKER was all humbug, and held that there had been as many serious errors in the accounts of former years. The report and resolution were adopted.

A resolution allowing the Coroners to employ a clerk in their office, at a reasonable salary, was lost after considerable debate. Subsequently the resolution, with the report, was recommitted, and the Board adjourned to Friday next.

Horrible Outrage at the Clinton Prison.

From the Troy Budget, Oct. 7.

We have just learned some particulars of an outrage, perpetrated by a negro convict at the Clinton Prison, which discloses a looseness of management on the part of the officers of that institution, which deserves the severest public censure. Among the convicts confined in this Prison, are two or three negroes, who, it seems, have been the especial pets of some of the officers connected with the prison. These negroes have been accorded a liberty and freedom during their terms of imprisonment, wholly incompatible with the requirements of public justice. They have acted as waiters, servants, and menials to the officers of the prison, and, we are told, have been frequently permitted to go outside of the picket walls of the prison, to run of errands for the officers, and to do other outside service for the benefit of those connected in official capacities with the prison. Indeed, it is asserted that the very negro who committed the outrage which we publish below, has, on one or more occasions, accompanied those connected with the prison on fishing and pleasure excursions into the wilderness, acting in the capacity of servant and waiter to these officers.

A few nights since, one of these pet negroes, who seems to have enjoyed the freedom of the place rather extensively, walked outside of the picket walls to enjoy his evening perambulations. This negro had been sentenced for four years, and the term of imprisonment did not expire until April next. Some little distance from the prison was the residence of the Sergeant of the Guard, who was then on duty within the prison inclosure. The wife of this officer and her child were alone at home. The negro proceeded to this house and made a forcible entrance into the dwelling. Here he rudely assaulted this lady, (a woman of about forty years of age,) and committed a horrible outrage upon her person. The negro remained some time in the house, and twice perpetrated the crime of rape before he left the premises. After the negro had perpetrated these atrocities he returned to the prison, went inside the walls as usual, and went to his ordinary place of rest. In the meantime the lady's husband remained at the prison all night, and did not learn of these outrages until he returned to his home in the morning. When these facts became known at the prison, great excitement ensued. The convicts themselves wanted to kill the negro, and he had to be placed in one of the securest cells to save him from their violence.

We learn that the negro is to be brought to Plattsburg to-day under the order of the Court, for trial, the Court being now in session at that place. We learn further that the excitement is so great that it is feared that the negro may be lynched while on his way to the place of trial.

$500 REWARD.—JEFFRIE'S ANTIDOTE, A specific mixture for the cure of gonorrhœa, gleet, stricture, and all other diseases of the urinary organs, a speedy cure without the least restriction of diet, drink, or change in application to business. Repeated experiments and long experience have proved that it will invariably cure any case which can be produced. This desirable result is obtained in from two to ten days, and as it neither creates nausea nor offends the palate, and renders unnecessary any deviation in diet or interruption to usual pursuits, sound sleep or healthy digestion, the nuisance is thus removed as speedily as is consistent with the production of a thorough and permanent cure. Its ingredients are purely vegetable, and no injurious effect, either constitutionally or locally, can be caused by its use. Price $1 per bottle. Sole agent for this City, C. H. RING, No. 192 Broadway, corner of John-st.

As an appetizer it is equally remarkable; assimilating with the gastric juices of the stomach, it renders them far more readily deriving all nutritious substances, and converting them into pure and wholesome blood; thus the digestion is improved and the whole framework of man moves on in a more vigorous and harmonious manner thereby. Price $5 per bottle, or two bottles for $8. Principal office, No. 71 Maiden-lane. DR. MAGNIN.

FOR SOUTHAMPTON AND HAVRE.—THE United States Mail Steamer ARAGO, D. Lamza, Commander, will leave for Havre, touching at Southampton to land the mails and passengers, on SATURDAY, Oct. 18, at 12

[illegible] Tuesday [illegible] Hanson a week ago [illegible] New-Haven [illegible] arrived [illegible] On leaving the cars at Canal-street [illegible] the conductor that she was a stranger [illegible] and wished to find a respectable boarding-house [illegible] This conductor placed her in charge of a policeman [illegible] requested him to conduct the girl to a respectable boarding-house. This worthy guardian of the City took her immediately to a house of prostitution not far from the corner of Centre and Walker streets. At the time of entering the house Eliza was [illegible] and had $15 in money. The policeman advised her to deposit her money with himself or his landlady for safe keeping. The landlady took the money, and after the policeman had gone, robbed the girl of all her apparel and put on her an old worthless dress and soiled linen. She was then [illegible] a private room and a man was introduced, who [illegible] an outrage on her person, [illegible] in his attempt. She remained at the house several days, trying to recover her money [illegible] with the brutality of the mistress of the house drove her into the street. She finally found her way to a station-house and slept there last Sunday night. The next day the girl was met in the street by a lady who directed her to the Five Points' House of Industry. She is now under the care of Mr. [illegible] who will see that she is returned to New-Haven [illegible] she had a brother residing. The policeman belonging to the "Eighth" boarding-house" is described as having black whiskers, of middling size, and rather fair complexion. He richly deserves [illegible] with Blackwell's Island.

[illegible] 1276 Sixth School-house—A New Light-house in the Seventh Ward.

[illegible] No. 12, in Madison-street, has lately been enlarged and so much improved that it [illegible] forward henceforth as one of the crack schools in the City. There is a general satisfaction, too, we believe, as to the cost of the improvements, the sum expended for the purpose being a good deal lower than the friends of the school at one time imagined it must cost. Yesterday, the public opening of the new house was had with exceedingly interesting ceremonies to make the occasion memorable. The music, which was led by the music teacher, Mr. W. Perrett, was very effective,—the solos that [illegible] touched the audience being Miss [illegible] "Home Delights" and DAVID DEVIT's [illegible] "Pretty Clyde." Commissioner WEBB sang "God [illegible] our Native land" in very spirited style, the school joining in the chorus. The Building Committee's Report was read by JAS. F. BERRIAN, Esq. WM. B. [illegible], Esq., President of the Local Board made a [illegible] address, and the Principal, Mr. JOHN H. FANNING, another. There were several recitations, and some [illegible] compositions read. After this, addresses were delivered by WM. D. MURRAY, Esq., Superintendent; G. H. RANDALL, Rev. E. L. MAGOON, Dr. FRANK TUTHILL, Rev. Mr. BANVARD and Ex-President WM. H. NEILSON. This is an excellent school, and every one of its seats ought to be occupied at once.

A Foundling.

An infant, apparently about two weeks old, was found Tuesday evening, on the door-mat in the entry of house No. 364 East Ninth-street. A Seventeenth Ward Policeman conveyed it to the Almshouse.

Police Intelligence.

THE ADAMS BIGAMY CASE—THE CHARGE OF SUBORNATION OF PERJURY.

The examination of Mr. and Mrs. FRAZER, charged with subornation of perjury in the matter of complaint for bigamy lately preferred against Alonzo W. ADAMS (alias Hansford,) is going on before Justice [illegible], at the Jefferson Market Police Court, and bids fair to be continued on the case from which it [illegible] from Henry A. Schmidt and John Cornal, witnesses, have been put in, stating that they, the witnesses, were mistaken by the prisoners, who tried to hire them to swear that they knew Captain Adams and Mrs. [illegible] in California, and that they were living together as man and wife. [illegible] very mysterious about the whole affair. It is quite clear that there is a great deal of villany [illegible] Indeed it is not unlikely that the [illegible] parties are yet in the background, and that they [illegible] more tools to bring about the end desired. The further hearing of the case will be reported in this journal. Some [illegible] facts, it is said, will be adduced when the matter is finally disposed of.

EXPOSING THE "NOVICE."

A boy, named Thomas Doe, picked Elias Pearsall's pocket of $120, and then tried to run away, but a Third-avenue policeman grabbed him and recovered the money. Yesterday, another little fellow, tried to do [illegible] in Ann-st., but he, too, was nabbed, and [illegible] yesterday, before Justice Osborne, at the Essex Market Police Court, by whom they were sent to the Juvenile Asylum.

THE PATRON GAME AGAIN.

R. E. MARK THE FACTS.

J. GURNEY's Establishment, No. 349 Broadway, is the oldest and most extensive establishment in the United States.

Gurney was the first to introduce the ART of Photography in this City.

Gurney has recently made important alterations and improvements in his establishment.

Gurney has now greater facilities for producing their work in every branch than has heretofore been done in this country.

Gurney has still in his employ the best of his old artists.

Gurney has recently added to the above a talented corps of American, French, and German artists.

Gurney's colored Photographs of all sizes need only to be seen to be appreciated; they speak for themselves.

Gurney's plain, untouched Photographs were never equaled; so say Artists and the best judges.

Gurney's Daguerreotypes are universally pronounced superior productions.

Gurney has received more testimonials for his skill than any other artist in the profession.

Gurney received the only medal for Photographic productions, at the late Paris exhibition—consequently Gurney stands at the head of the world in the Photographic Art.

Gurney has not removed any branch of his business to any part of the City.

Gurney has no connection with any other establishment in any other part of the City.

Gurney has been faithfully to his patrons and friends and has for the last sixteen years.

GURNEY will be most happy to continue that attention and will still endeavor to please all who may give him a visit at his Photographic Palace of Art, No. 349 Broadway, corner Leonard-street, New-York.

TRUTH MUST AND WILL PREVAIL.

It is True—That CHARLES D. FREDRICKS was the first to introduce the Life size Photographs in this country.

It is True—That CHARLES D. FREDRICKS by means of his Paris establishment has the services of the only corps of French Artists of rare talent now employed in this country, for the coloring of Photographs in oil, pastel and aquarelle.

It is True—That CHARLES D. FREDRICKS has removed his Photographic Department and his Parisian Artists to his new and model establishment, No. 585 Broadway, and consequently has no further connection with the one place of business.

It is True—That some imitators in this City are now endeavoring to make the public believe that they have superior artists and many other advantages for competing with the work done by CHARLES D. FREDRICKS—but as TRUTH MUST PREVAIL—It is only necessary that the public should see and judge for themselves.

LONG ISLAND.

King's County Republican Convention Mass Meeting.

This Convention assembled yesterday evening, at Flatlands, and with great unanimity agreed upon the following candidates for county officers:

For District-Attorney—RICHARD C. UNDERHILL—present incumbent.

For County Treasurer—JOHN E. CAMMEYER.

For Superintendents of Poor—WALTER KELSEY, Gravesend, HENRY E. RIPLEY, Brooklyn, E. D.

For Justice of Sessions—STEDMAN WRIGHT.

For Coroner—JOHN J. BAILEY.

In the evening a mass meeting was held, and there was one of the largest and most enthusiastic gatherings ever held in Kings County. The people came in from all sections of the county. Addresses were made by R. C. UNDERHILL and J. M. VAN COTT, Esqs., of Brooklyn.

The Rocky Mountain Club of Brooklyn was not the least interesting feature of the occasion. Seven omnibuses were engaged for the members of this Club, and every portion of each was occupied, outside and inside. They started from their head quarters at 7½ o'clock, preceded by a band of music, and passed through Fulton, Clinton, Atlantic, Henry, President, Court, and Bergen streets, to Flatbush-avenue, and so to the country.

If the demonstration made on this route upon the appearance of this Club is any indication of who the people prefer for President, they certainly must be all Fremonters in Brooklyn. From almost every house they were welcomed with cheers, which were promptly and heartily responded to by the Club.

In President-street the Club halted a few minutes to pay their respects to Hon. WM. L. DAYTON, the candidate for the Vice-Presidency, who is temporarily stopping at the residence of Mr. LEWIS. When called for he came upon the front steps, when he was greeted with nine cheers, to which compliment he bowed his acknowledgment, and the Club passed on to their destination.

Long Island Politics.

The Republicans of the First Assembly District of Suffolk have nominated HENRY HUNTTING, Esq., for Assembly. It is a capital nomination, and there is good reason to believe that he will be elected.

The Suffolk County Republicans have nominated JAMES TUTHILL, Esq., for District-Attorney.

The Democrats, after a month's drumming, rallied strong enough at Riverhead, on Monday, to raise a hickory pole.

FIRST CONGRESSIONAL REPUBLICAN DISTRICT CONVENTION.

The Convention met at Jamaica on Tuesday, at 2 o'clock P. M., and organized by appointing HENRY J. SEAMAN, Chairman, and ABNER G. CARLE, Secretary. Several prominent names were presented, but inasmuch as Queens County had the nominee for Governor and present Senator, and Richmond County the Elector, the nomination was conceded to Suffolk, and Dr. F. W. LORD was unanimously nominated. A good nomination, and certain of an election by a arge majority.

One of the Institutions.

The Lee-avenue Boys' meeting was reopened last evening with the immense hall crowded full. This famous and model meeting has come to be an institution in East Brooklyn, and is in all the people's mouths. The upper story of the church furnished a fine hall before, but since the enlargement nothing more could be desired for room or convenient arrangements. Mr. JOHNSON greeted his charge with a few words of welcome. Music by the school led by Mr. LUMMUS, with songs in addition from a quartette of the choir, from Mr. BROWN, of Yonkers, and Mr. D. P. HORTON, of Brooklyn, added very materially to the interest of the occasion. The opening address of the season was delivered by Dr. FRANK TUTHILL. Meetings will be held every Wednesday evening, and Dr. BETHUNE, Rev. Mr. CUYLER, Mr. VAN METER and others have already been engaged to speak at them.

Ratification Meeting.

The friends of MILLARD FILLMORE held a ratification meeting in Brooklyn last evening. There was a respectable attendance, and quite a large and showy procession concluded the proceedings of the evening.

The Superintendent of the Penitentiary presented the following report for the month of September: Prisoners received, 88; discharged, 121. Total number remaining Oct. 1, 164.

No business of general interest was transacted.

A boy named DANIEL SULLIVAN, 7 years of age, was drowned at the foot of Gold-street, Brooklyn, Tuesday night. His body was recovered yesterday.

Assembly Nominations.

The Fillmore Party have completed their Assembly nominations in Hudson County. They are as follows:

First District—Hoboken and Fourth Ward of Jersey City—JONATHAN V. THURSTON.

Second District—First, Second and Third Wards of Jersey City—JOHN D. WARD, (present member.)

Third District—City of Hudson, Bergen, North Bergen and Harrison townships—ABRAM V. SCHUYLER.

The Republicans of the First District met last night at Hoboken, to nominate a candidate for Assembly. In the Second District they nominated ROBERT GRICHERSE, Jr.; and in the Third District, yesterday afternoon, GARRET VAN HORN was nominated.

The Democratic Party has not yet made its nomination. In the First District M. S. WICKWARE was nominated and declined. The Second District Convention met last night, and balloted without effecting a choice, and adjourned to meet on Saturday evening. S. A. FRENCH and JEREMIAH HALSEY, each received half of the votes of the Convention. The Democrats have not yet nominated in the Third District.

The announcement that two such horses as Flora Temple and Lancet were to contend over the Fashion Course yesterday, created a great deal of excitement. It was the theme of conversation from the time it was announced.

On arriving at the Course we found the field occupied by a dense crowd of carriages, and the stands by a mass of spectators. The betting was $100 to $60 on Flora. She won the race in three heats. Lancet broke and acted badly throughout. Flora won it without a struggle, amidst deafening shouts.

WEDNESDAY, Oct. 8—P. M.

The foreign mail received by the Arago at this port from Havre and Southampton, Sept. 24, without furnishing later dates than the previous telegraphic news via Quebec, affords some interesting details from the London and Continental money markets. The English Funds closed at 94 ⅞ cent. There were some disturbing political rumors which caused a fluctuation of ¼@¾ ⅞ cent. from the previous weekly mail, but no change in the London discount market. The private letters say that business moved on steadily; not much done in American Stocks, but the latest advices from this side of a rise in the New-York market, had effected satisfaction, and a few orders came out at advanced prices for purchase. Illinois Central Stock, and the bonds of one or two of the leading New-York and Western Roads. The quotations in London were somewhat lower; Illinois Stock 100 sterling, equal to 112¾ here; Construction Bonds 82 ex-dividend; New-York Central Stock 92; Erie Thirds 67¾. The money accounts from the Continent are less satisfactory. The bank at Amsterdam has advanced the rate of interest to 4½, and the Austrian Bank at Vienna to 5 ⅞ cent. The French Rente is ¼@¾ ⅞ cent. lower, and the Credit Mobilier down to 1,677 francs. The movement of Silver to the East continued large. The succeeding Oriental steamer from Southampton was to take, according to rumor, $6,250,000. There had been one or two failures in Manchester, and further unfavorable developments about the exploded Royal British Bank and the Crystal Palace Concern at London, to which particular reference is thus made by the London Times:

The meeting of the Royal British Bank to-day excited intense interest and was protracted to a late hour. The proceedings were such as might have been anticipated, and the shareholders, smarting under the ruin disclosed, resorted to indiscriminate manifestations of anger, which, instead of promoting, obstructed the attempt to obtain specific details that would place the chief delinquents in their proper position before the world. It transpired, however, on the testimony of Mr. COLEMAN, the accountant, that the account of Mr. HUMPHREY BROWN, the member for Tewkesbury, and until recently a director of the Bank, exhibits a debt of £70,906; that Mr. JOHN MACGREGOR, the member for Glasgow, and the founder of the concern, figures for the more moderate sum of £7,562; that Mr. CAMERON, the late manager, has obtained £32,000, against which there are no securities except such as are now found to have been previously charged and encumbered, and the utmost worth of which is estimated at £3,000; that Mr. MULLINS, the late solicitor, took £7,000; and that one of the auditors owes £3,000. It was also stated that Mr. JOHN GWYNNE, who was formerly a director, retired in 1851, leaving a debt of £12,640, and that a loss of £12,456 was sustained by Mr. OLIVER, of Liverpool. The total of the loss from persons directly connected with the administration of the Bank appears to have been £121,000; and it is to the acts of these persons, and not to the imprudent advances on the Welsh coal and iron works, that the fate of the shareholders is mainly to be attributed. The Welsh works have involved a sum of £106,458, but they are even now considered to be unquestionably worth £40,000, and there is a possibility that they may prove of much greater value. According to the balance sheet the liabilities of the Bank are £599,151, while the assets are estimated (assuming the Welsh property to fetch £40,000) at £322,644. The loss to be made up is therefore £216,487. It seems that, out of the sum appropriated by the late manager, £3,703 was connected with dealings in the shares of the company, although the charter among its other deceptive provisions, contains a prohibition against transactions of that nature. It was further stated that the securities furnished by Mr. CAMERON comprised 200 shares of the Bank, and as there is no prospect of recovering anything from him, the proprietors will suffer proportionably by the non-payment of the £10,000, which the call of £50 on that number should now bring in. On the whole, the prospects of all parties have been placed by the results of the meeting in a more deplorable light than they had previously occupied, and there is reason still to fear that neither shareholders nor depositors have yet recognized to the full extent, the manner in which their calamities are likely to be aggravated by the costs to be drained from them by the Court of Chancery.

The rumors in circulation, yesterday, that serious irregularities had been discovered in the transfer department of the Crystal Palace Company have been confirmed. An investigation of the share register has resulted in showing that fictitious transfer documents for preference and other shares to the money value of about £10,000 have been sent into the office, of which a proportion amounting to about £6,000 have been placed upon the register. The examination thus far has necessarily been a hasty one, and Messrs. QUILTER, BALL & Co., the accountants, have been called in to complete it. The servant of the company to whom the malversation is attributed has succeeded for the moment in effecting his escape. The annexed communication has been addressed to the Stock Exchange:

CRYSTAL PALACE, Saturday, Sept. 20, 1856.

SIR: With reference to the reports yesterday in circulation as to irregularities having taken place in the transfer office of this Company, I am directed by the Board to inform you, that they have caused an examination to be made of the share register and transfers deposited in the office from the 1st of January, 1855, to the present date. The result of this the Directors regret to say shows some improper dealings in regard to the shares, although not to the extent rumored. The result, so far as ascertained, shows about 1,207 original shares, and 691 preference shares to have been improperly registered; that is to say, to have been put on the register without a proper title in the transferors, while other transfers, to the extent of 1,[illegible] original shares, and 291 preference shares, similarly circumstanced, have been sent into the office but have not been registered.

A more complete investigation into the matter is in progress by Messrs. QUILTER, BALL & Co., the result of which will be communicated to you.

By order of the Board,
GEORGE GROVE, Secretary.

MIRELL SLAUGHTER, Esq., Secretary, Railways Department, Stock Exchange.

Our own Money Market, to-day, was characterized by much the same activity noticed on Tuesday, though the Stock people had less difficulty in making up their waffts. With the Discount Brokers there is an increased offering of long date paper, 4 to 6 months, which goes at 9½@10½ for strictly prime names; while 60 to 90 day bills are not superabundant at 8½@9 ⅞ cent. The offerings at Bank are somewhat irregular. Two or three of the large concerns, drawn upon heavily from the interior, are redeeming their bills of accommodation to correspond. The up-town Banks engaged extensively in City trade are moving with comparative ease, and are lenders of money on call in Wall-street. Some of the Foreign bankers had more means to lend than yesterday.

The speculators for a fall on the Stock Exchange sold freely at the early Board at their own option 60 days, and also for cash, where the Stocks are readily borrowed. This disposition and the sales made by real holders from the scarcity of money, caused a further decline of ¼@½ ⅞ cent. on the list generally. In the afternoon there was a steadier feeling, attributable, in some degree, to the stubbornness with which New-York and Erie, the controlling stock of the market, is held. The last price was 61⅝, same as on Tuesday; Reading and Toledo ¼ ⅞ cent. lower. The general market closed steady.

The Foreign Trade tables, including the month of September just made up at our Custom-House, which we published yesterday, relate to the calendar year, but are chiefly important as touching the first quarter of the new Treasury Year, from 1st July to 30th September. The figures, though showing a considerable measure of extravagance, by comparison with last season, in the business of importation, are otherwise satisfactory, and are conclusive of the estimate which we gave some weeks ago, to the effect that the movement of Grain and Flour for the first quarter of the new year would prove larger than the corresponding months in 1855. The shipments of Cotton from this Port, owing to the rapid clearing out of the stock on sale early in the Summer, were smaller, and yet in the aggregate we find that the value of all Domestic Produce exported is increased $6,088,000. We remark, also, that the remittances in Bullion in settlement of the balances are $7,-349,000 greater than the first quarter of the late Treasury year, while the Imports, owing to the falling off in September, are about three and a half millions less than was estimated at the beginning of that month—say $64,548,000 in place of $68,000,000.

We do not look for an extravagant importation in October or November. The advices from France by the Arago are to the effect that some considerable orders for Silks and other fine goods had been received from the United States, but for the most part wider such limits as to price, and accompanied by accounts from our market as would at least delay their execution. The prices have in July and August did not keep pace with the advances in the fabrics in the other side. Recently, however, they have gone up, particularly for cor-

[illegible] Illinois Central Stock, and the bonds of one or two of the leading New-York and Western Roads. The quotations in London were somewhat lower; Illinois Stock 100 sterling, equal to 112¾ here; Construction Bonds 82 ex-dividend; New-York Central Stock 92; Erie Thirds 67¾. The money accounts from the Continent are less satisfactory. The bank at Amsterdam has advanced the rate of interest to 4½, and the Austrian Bank at Vienna to 5 ⅞ cent. The French Rente is ¼@¾ ⅞ cent. lower, and the Credit Mobilier down to 1,677 francs. The movement of Silver to the East continued large. The succeeding Oriental steamer from Southampton was to take, according to rumor, $6,250,000. There had been one or two failures in Manchester, and further unfavorable developments about the exploded Royal British Bank and the Crystal Palace Concern at London, to which particular reference is thus made by the London Times:

The meeting of the Royal British Bank to-day excited intense interest and was protracted to a late hour. The proceedings were such as might have been anticipated, and the shareholders, smarting under the ruin disclosed, resorted to indiscriminate manifestations of anger, which, instead of promoting, obstructed the attempt to obtain specific details that would place the chief delinquents in their proper position before the world. It transpired, however, on the testimony of Mr. COLEMAN, the accountant, that the account of Mr. HUMPHREY BROWN, the member for Tewkesbury, and until recently a director of the Bank, exhibits a debt of £70,906; that Mr. JOHN MACGREGOR, the member for Glasgow, and the founder of the concern, figures for the more moderate sum of £7,562; that Mr. CAMERON, the late manager, has obtained £32,000, against which there are no securities except such as are now found to have been previously charged and encumbered, and the utmost worth of which is estimated at £3,000; that Mr. MULLINS, the late solicitor, took £7,000; and that one of the auditors owes £3,000. It was also stated that Mr. JOHN GWYNNE, who was formerly a director, retired in 1851, leaving a debt of £12,640, and that a loss of £12,456 was sustained by Mr. OLIVER, of Liverpool. The total of the loss from persons directly connected with the administration of the Bank appears to have been £121,000; and it is to the acts of these persons, and not to the imprudent advances on the Welsh coal and iron works, that the fate of the shareholders is mainly to be attributed. The Welsh works have involved a sum of £106,458, but they are even now considered to be unquestionably worth £40,000, and there is a possibility that they may prove of much greater value. According to the balance sheet the liabilities of the Bank are £599,151, while the assets are estimated (assuming the Welsh property to fetch £40,000) at £322,644. The loss to be made up is therefore £216,487. It seems that, out of the sum appropriated by the late manager, £3,703 was connected with dealings in the shares of the company, although the charter among its other deceptive provisions, contains a prohibition against transactions of that nature. It was further stated that the securities furnished by Mr. CAMERON comprised 200 shares of the Bank, and as there is no prospect of recovering anything from him,
